

DESPENDENT OVER LOVE; SUICIDE COMMITS

JURY TRIAL A SOCIAL TRIUMPH

Piedmont, En Masse, Sees First Legal Battle End a Draw at 12:40 a. m.

Society Buds and Matrons Gleeful as MacGregor and Lawyer Combat Sleuths

Piedmont's first jury trial was held last night in the Highland country and was voted a tremendous social success. In fact, so interesting were the proceedings that it was decided to hold them all over again, the jury declining to disagree any further after 12:40 a. m. had been reached, and the town bailiff had run out of ice water, and ballots.

So Charles MacGregor, wealthy contractor in whom the blood of Wallace Howe, will be tied again upon a charge of operating his automobile through Piedmont June 30 at a rate greater than 15 miles an hour. To be precise, MacGregor is accused of going 30 miles an hour with his hat flying and his gray locks streaming in the electric atmosphere of Rhinardo avenue.

SUPREME COURT DECISION.
Two imported detectives from San Francisco swore that they stood at the end of a 220-yard course and timed the contractor with stop watches, and they insisted there could be no mistake. He covered the distance in 15 seconds flat. MacGregor, himself, the only witness for the defense, said he didn't look at his speedometer and didn't know how fast he was going. He offered no excuse, but his attorney, Robert Gaylord, after the case had been closed, astonished the assemblage by dragging in the supreme court of Pennsylvania to prove that when the statute read "at a speed no greater than the rate of a mile in four minutes" it was meant that a man had to be timed for a mile before he could be arrested.

In reply to this, Prosecuting Attorney Ballantine told Judge D. Colin Craig that Pennsylvania was a long ways off and, furthermore, that an automobile couldn't speed 30 miles in Piedmont without running into the scenery or out of the town.

SELECT AFFAIR.
The testimony was heard by the largest crowd that ever attended a municipal function in Piedmont. The little town hall near Piedmont park was packed early in the evening, and by 9 o'clock the crowd had spilled into the corridors and the front lawn and there was a stinging of automobiles outside like the exterior of the Metropolitan when Caruso is billed to sing. The wealthy Highlander clan came with their families, competing for seats quite as though it was a charity bazaar. The presence of a score of stately matrons and another score of giggling buds lent a brilliancy to the audience and harmonized effectively with the soft-toned walls of the courtroom and the pink lampshade on his honor's desk.

One fair spectator said to her escort: "Harry, do tell me which is the bar and where the bench is, and please get on the jury, I want to laugh at you."

THEY CHEWED GUM.
MacGregor, himself, behind the railing with his attorney, Robert Gaylord, seemed to enjoy the proceedings hugely. He and his lawyer and the judge chewed gum seriously, and seriously and incessantly all through the trial, and Piedmont was divided over the question of whether it was quite the proper thing. Never having had a jury trial before, there was no

AMERICANS TO ENTER PROTEST

U. S. Runner Is Disqualified and Countrymen Are Indignant

Southern California Youth Is Among the Victors at the Olympiad

STOCKHOLM, July 12.—Yankee athletes continued harvesting their crop of laurels at the Olympic games today. All three places in the final of the 110-meter race were won by Americans, a University of Vermont man captured the broad jump, and nine wearers of the starry shield qualified for the semi-finals in the 400-meter race.

Incidentally, Americans broke two records, one of them twice. In the 400-meter race James Meredith, the Mercersburg school boy, paced by the veteran, Melvin Sheppard, reduced the Olympic mark to 48 seconds, a few minutes after Charles Reidpath of Syracuse University had broken the same record by running the distance in 48 7-10 seconds.

In the running broad jump, Robert L. Gutterston, the Vermont leaper, with a jump of 7 meters 50 centimeters (24 feet 11 and a fraction inches), beat the previous Olympic record of 24 feet 6 1/2 inches.

In the fifth heat of the semi-finals of the 400-meter race Donald B. Young, Boston Athletic Association, finished first but was disqualified on the ground of interference with Hans Braun, Germany, who was then placed first by the judges and is entitled to compete in the finals.

NEW WORLD RECORD.
The morning started with a fine performance by the Finn, A. R. Tallberg, in the discus throwing, and he beat final. He beat with his throw of 45 meters 21 centimeters (148 feet 1 1/2 inches) not only the Olympic record of 136 feet 1-3-inch made by an American, Sheridan, in Athens in 1906, but also the world's record of 145 feet 9 1/2 inches established by James H. Duncan at Celtic Park, New York, on June 28 last year. R. L. Byrd's throw of 42 meters 32 centimeters (138 feet 9 1/2 inches) and James H. Duncan's throw of 42 meters 28 centimeters (138 feet 8 3/8 inches) also surpass the standing Olympic record.

The first try-outs for the 400-meter flat race were largely formalities. In several of the heats there were only two entries and what races there were usually took place between the second and third man. The failure of G. R. L. Anderson, England, to gain a place in the first heat was a great disappointment to the Englishmen.

9 PLACES FOR AMERICANS.
The first and second in each trial heat qualified for the semi-finals run. Americans who won places in the semi-finals were: Joseph H. M. Ros-

La Follette Says Roosevelt Is Overmastered by Third Term Craving

Bryan Praised as Towering Figure of Patriotic Devotion

WASHINGTON, July 12.—Under the caption, "The Case of Mr. Roosevelt," Senator La Follette has written the following editorial in the current number of La Follette's Weekly:

"Bryan at Baltimore, foregoing all chance of his own nomination, marshaling all his forces, braving Tammany and the trusts to rescue his party from their domination, carrying the convention for the adoption of the most progressive Democratic platform offered and the nomination of the most progressive Democratic candidate available, was a towering figure of moral power and patriotic devotion to civic righteousness.

"Roosevelt at Chicago, backed by money, derided by the people, and the party trust, organizing what are now confessed to have been fake contests as to nearly two hundred delegates in order to control the Republican convention and secure his own nomination, refusing to aid in making a progressive platform, bound to have the nomination or destroy the Republican party, was a most striking example of misdirected power and unworthy ambition.

T. R. WAS FOR T. R.
"Roosevelt had at great an opportunity to serve the progressive cause at Chicago as Bryan had at Baltimore. But Roosevelt was serving the man, not the cause. He wanted one thing, the nomination. And yet he did not have enough votes to nominate himself upon any honest basis. He did have enough delegates in that convention to ultimately have nominated a more progressive and adopted a strong progressive platform. He could even have nominated Hadley on such a platform, and progressive Republicans could have supported Hadley in much the same spirit as hundreds of thousands of them will now support Wilson. Neither Hadley nor Wilson are veterans in the progressive ranks. Neither of them has been tried by the people. Both appear to be men of high ideals whose records, though short, give promise.

"But Roosevelt would not consider Hadley. He would have no one but himself. At the first suggestion of Hadley, he turned down the nomination. He would not have lost his followers. WHY NOT?

"If he had the evidence to prove that Taft could not be honestly and fairly nominated, why did he not direct his lieutenants to present that evidence to the national committee, and then to the convention and the country so clearly that the convention would not have dared to nominate Taft and that Taft could not, in honor, have accepted the nomination if made.

LORIMER'S ATTACK IS HOT

Bitterly Assails Those Who Would Oust Him From Seat in Senate

Roosevelt, Bryan and Press Conspire Against Him, He Declares

WASHINGTON, July 12.—The Senate recessed again today without final action on the Lorimer case. At 4:10 o'clock, after Senator Lorimer had been speaking for five hours, Senator Smoot moved a recess until 10 a. m. tomorrow. The motion carried. Senator Lorimer had not concluded his speech.

WASHINGTON, July 12.—Renewing his attack upon his opponents, Senator Lorimer began today the conclusion of his speech of defense in the Senate. He belittled the attitude of yesterday, when he asked for no quarter, but assailed those who had been active in prosecuting the case against him, was apparent from the outset.

T. R.'S CAMPAIGN FUND.
The attack on Colonel Roosevelt was based on testimony given by George B. Cortelyou before a Senate committee, regarding the $1,900,000 campaign fund raised for the Republican campaign in 1904. Lorimer referred to Colonel Roosevelt as the "custodian of all the morals of the country, private and public."

"Of course," he exclaimed, "not a cent of that $1,900,000 could have been contributed by the predatory wealth of the country.

"Surely all of it was the free gift of the common people for whom this man is the great champion. No material factor contributed to that fund—only the common people of whom he was the guardian."

LETTER TO ROOSEVELT.
The letter from President Taft to Colonel Roosevelt, expressing the hope that the latter would be ousted, which became public in the pre-convention campaign, again was taken up by Lorimer. He drew attention to President Taft's phrase embracing the "necessity of winning."

"You never mortal man more completely surrounded by conspiracy and intrigue," exclaimed Lorimer dramatically.

"The president of the United States, William Taft; Theodore Roosevelt, the ex-president; a former Democratic candidate for the presidency, William Jennings Bryan; and the trust press of the country, all were in it—all joined in the conspiracy to poison the minds of the citizenship in order that one man might be destroyed to satisfy the malice of the most corrupt set of newspaper owners known to the history of the country."

SENATOR WILLIAM LORIMER, who may know his fate at hands of Senate today.

GLOUCESTER, Mass., July 2.—The estate of John Hays Hammond here will be the scene next month of an elaborate benefit garden party under the auspices of 28,000 club women of the United States to raise money for a Titanic memorial arch in Washington. The Hammond estate has a natural ravine, one part of which will be used as an open air amphitheater. The whole affair will be fashioned after the "command" performances given to royalty in England. President Taft will attend and Mrs. Taft is one of the committee of 100 who have charge of the affair. The benefit will be repeated at Newport and Bar Harbor a week later.

Grosscup, New Jersey state chairman, Colonel Robert Ewing, national committeeman from Louisiana, and other leaders.

Escaped Convicts Prepare To Give Battle to Posse

CRAIG, Colo., July 12.—Frank Dempsey and another escaped convict from the Wyoming penitentiary at Rawlins, who have been terrorizing settlers on the Wyoming Colorado line for the last two days, have been surrounded on Slater creek, 40 miles northeast of Craig, by possees from three counties. The men are said to be well supplied with ammunition, according to advices received here today, and a battle is looked for momentarily. Two days ago the bandits compelled Albert Gent, a rancher, to surrender his firearms and ammunition and two horses.

DEAD BODY FOUND IN HOTEL

E. J. McCurdy in Farewell Note Tells of Affair of the Heart

Takes Poison When He Thinks He Is Too Poor to Marry Southern Girl

Despondent because he was unable to obtain money in order that he might marry Miss Katherine Middleton, a beautiful girl living in Los Angeles, E. J. McCurdy, an electrical superintendent, swallowed strychnine in his room, at the Waldorf hotel, 1441 Broadway, last night, and died of the poison before anybody knew of his act. His body was found in his room by employees of the place this afternoon, and in his hand was found a note addressed to his brother, J. W. McCurdy, 5408 Dover street, telling him of the reason for his act.

McCurdy had been out of work for some time, and had also been in ill health. He was very despondent, and several times complained to his brother, with whom he lived, of his financial difficulties. Some time ago, before losing his position with a large corporation, he was in Los Angeles, and fell deeply in love with Miss Middleton of that city. The two were very friendly, and it is believed that they were engaged to be married. After returning to Oakland, McCurdy wrote constantly to Miss Middleton, and talked much of his plans for the future. Then he lost his place, and since that time has been brooding over his difficulties.

McCurdy took a room at the hotel several days ago and later obtained the poison. He retired to his room last night, and after writing and sealing the note to his brother, telling of his dependence, and determination to end his life, he is believed to have taken the poison, a vial with a strychnine label being found on the table beside his bed.

British View Canal As World Property

Pall Mall Gazette Gives English View of Panama Situation.

LONDON, July 12.—Commenting on the protest of the British government at Washington in connection with the negotiations of the Panama Canal, the Pall Mall Gazette today contends that Great Britain is in the responsible position of having to uphold not only her own rights, but those of the whole world, which depend on the Hay-Pauncefote treaty.

At the same time the Pall Mall Gazette recognizes the entire reasonableness of the American contention that, having supplied the capital and skill to build the canal, Americans have the right in every consideration, not conflicting with the treaty obligations of the United States.

SEVERAL AMERICAN ATHLETES TAKE FIRST PLACES AT STOCKHOLM MEET

Olympic Records Are Lowered by Representatives From U. S.

enberger, Irish-American A. C.; Melvin W. Sheppard, James E. Meredith, Mercersburg Academy, Donald L. Young, Boston A. A.; Harold B. Haff, University of Michigan; Edward E. Lindberg, Chicago A. A.; Clarence S. Edmundson, Seattle A. A.; Ira N. Davenport, University of Chicago; and Charles D. Reidpath, Syracuse University. England will have six representatives in the semi-finals, Sweden five and France and Norway two each. South Africa, Germany, Japan and Hungary will be represented.

No attempt was made to run fast time heats when the two men competed and it was noticeable that Sheppard and E. W. Haff, England, who ran a dead heat in the second, covered the course at a jog trot, taking 66 3-5 seconds to cover the 400 meters.

CROSS-COUNTRY RUN.
The appearance of the army of officers in the arena for the cross-country run of about 400 meters (nearly two miles and a half), clad in regulation running clothes, the Swedes wearing the light blue trousers, which make all their athletes conspicuous, proved the popularity of the military. They were greeted with a round of applause and had to pose in several positions for their photos before the race could be started.

The men were sent off at intervals of one minute. The officers started in front of the royal box. They ran a third of a lap round the track and then disappeared through the entrance. There were 22 starters, 10 of them Swedes, five British, the Russians, two French, two Danes, one American and one Austrian. Lieutenant George S. Patton Jr., U. S. A., a tall, slim, fair man, took the regulation sprinter's start. He got off more like a runner than most of the starters and was given a hearty cheer. He was the ninth to be sent off.

PATTON FALLS AT FINISH.
The first four officers to start re-entered the stadium in the following order: Brulle, France; Godfree, England; Bernhard, Austria; Stranne, Sweden. Then came Haagstrom, a Swede; Joller, a Dane, and Wersaell, a Swede, in order, but Durant, England, who started fifth, passed the eighth. Lieutenant Patton had a lead of 20 yards in front of Asbrink, Sweden, when he entered the stadium, but lost ground in the last 50 yards and finished tenth. The Swedish officer who started tenth passed him two yards from the tape. Lieutenant Patton threw himself forward and fell at the finish. After a few minutes he was able to walk off holding the arm of a friend. The remainder of the officers re-entered the stadium practically in their starting order, but Lilliehook, Sweden, passed Haff-niholm, Russia, on the home stretch.

The winners in the modern pentathlon are reckoned according to the lowest number of points made by them during the whole of the five events. The first in each event is credited with one, the second with two, etc.

SING NATIONAL ANTHEM.
When the announcement of the result of the modern pentathlon was made and three Swedish flags rose at the same moment to the top of the flagstaffs at the end of the stadium, the whole assembly of 25,000 persons rose to their feet, uncovered their heads and sang the Swedish national anthem. Then with a mighty roar they gave three cheers for the winners, while the American competitors gave an American yell followed by "Sweden" three times, after which the Swedes applauded Lieutenant Patton.

The outcome of the discus throwing was a disappointment to the Americans, who had counted upon a clean sweep in that event. The stocky Finn, A. Taipale, was too much for them.

The United States soon had her turn, however, when the megaphone announced that Albert L. Gutterson of the University of Vermont, at his very first attempt at the running broad-jump, which was then beginning, had well beaten the Olympic record of 24 feet 6 1/2 inches made by Irons of the United States team in London in 1908. Gutterson cleared 24 feet 11 inches and a small fraction.

In the first heat of the semi-finals of the 400 meters race, Charles D. Reidpath, Syracuse University, by running the distance in 48 7-10 seconds, beat the Olympic record for the distance of 49 1-5 seconds made by Hillman of America at St. Louis in 1904.

In the 3000-meter team race the first heat was won by the United States team, consisting of Abel E. Kiviat, Irish-American Athletic club; Tel S. Berna, Cornell University; Norman S. Tabor, Brown University; Louis Scott, South Paterson Y. M. C. A.; and George V. Bonhag, Irish-American Athletic club. H. Kolehmainen, Finland, came in first, but the American team had four out of the first five men in the race.

There was a splendid fight between Kolehmainen and Kiviat, who for seven laps kept at the Finn's heels. In the last lap, however, the Finn easily spurted away and finished 50 yards ahead. Berna, Tabor and Scott were next in the order named, while Bonhag was the last of the Americans. The Finnish team numbered only four men.

In the second heat Germany won, outdistancing the Swedish team, which was merely giving an exhibition, the five Swedes running breast to breast. The British team ran alone in the third heat. South Africa, Russia, Italy and France had all entered teams, but they failed to start.

In the final heat of the 110-meter hurdle race Fred W. Kelly, University of Southern California, finished three or four feet ahead of James Wendell, New York Athletic club, and Martin W. Hawkins, Multnomah Athletic club. Kenneth Powell, England, was fourth, and J. R. Case of the University of Illinois fifth. John P. Nicholson, University of Missouri, fell at a hurdle near the last.

STOCKHOLM, July 12.—No Olympic festival ever held before compared with the present occasion in the number and diversity of its social features. Excursions on the water, dinners and concerts in the stadium nightly by bands and choirs fill every hour unoccupied by the sports. A gala performance in the beautiful state opera last night was attended by the diplomatic representatives and officers of the various nations.

LONDON, July 12.—Disappointment at England's poor showing at the Olympic games is reflected in an article contributed to the Daily Mail today by Beach Thomas, ex-president of the Oxford University Athletic Club, who complains that while he finds American "found and made athletes" unparalleled, perhaps since the days of Phidippides, and that the Swedes, Danes and Finns have organized gymnastics on a scale surpassing classical Greece, Great Britain was not even made a bid for victory.

lish methods with the splendid organization, training and discipline of the Americans and Scandinavians, says: "We lost because we desired to lose."

The Daily Mail in an editorial on the Olympic, while protesting against the American newspapers representing the Great Britain as decadent as being to ponder the king's famous words: "Wake up, England!"

we are not to disgrace ourselves at the next Olympic at Berlin, the British Olympic committee will do well to ponder the king's famous words: "Wake up, England!"

DR. F. F. JACKSON SPEAKS TO LEAGUE

Candidate for Office of Commissioner on Platform at Fruitvale.

The Taxpayers League of Oakland held a meeting at Diamond hall, Upper Fruitvale, last evening. Among the speakers were Dr. F. F. Jackson, candidate for the office of commissioner of public health and safety at the coming special election.

Among other things he said: "I know of many instances where large enterprises and manufacturing concerns have sent their representatives to Oakland seeking a suitable site upon which to locate. I know that these representatives have found suitable sites, I know that they were ready to advise that the plant be located here until the ground was surveyed, and I know that they then advised that the tax rate in Oakland was absolutely prohibitive."

"Our taxes equal the amount of interest that large enterprises are willing to accept on their investment."

"We can never have lower taxes while a political machine has to be supported."

"From my knowledge of the affairs of the city of Oakland, I know that, if I am elected, I will be able to force a reduction of at least one-third of the present tax rate."

"We should have a city emergency hospital. There is no city in the United States of the population of Oakland that has not an emergency hospital. We should have emergency hospital."

"The incumbent of the office I seek has stated through the public press that he does not want the office—that it was forced on him—that he is not fit for it either by training or temperament. Notwithstanding all this, he asked for himself at the meeting of the city commissioners to take the office. Why? The voters can draw their own conclusions."

"For years I have been making a fight for the same things for which I am now fighting. I am going to keep up this fight as long as I have the strength and power to do so or until the present conditions are remedied."

"If I go into office I will be an absolutely free agent. I will owe allegiance to no man, or body of men."

JURY DEBATES IN PANTRY; HUMORISTS ENLIVEN CROWD

Justice Removes Blindfold to Take In Exclusive Minstrel Show

way of establishing precedent in the matter.

A committee was appointed to deputize City Marshal Rose to find out from his honor whether it was proper to smoke in the courtroom. His honor replied that it was not, whereupon the Piedmont Citizens' Protective Alliance got at least one more new number.

To the surprise of everybody, little difficulty was experienced in selecting a jury. Either side seemed willing to take the first dozen men who were called and swore they were impartial. The box was filled with the following:

J. W. BERKEFELD, surveyor.
W. E. NICHOLSON, banker.
E. WILLIAMS, car builder.
E. J. HARTUNG, clerk.
F. A. POWELL, commercial traveler.

W. H. METCALF, son of ex-secretary of the navy.

J. FRAZIER, salesman.

J. K. G. GRIFFIN, artist.

GEORGE D. CLARK, real estate dealer.

J. J. EGAN, hardware merchant.

J. DIENSTAG, broker.

W. LITTLE, broker (foreman).

EXHIBITS A, B AND C.

There were only two witnesses for the people, Gus Spaulding and James Novack, the investigators hired by Piedmont to trap the auto speeders. Each man was positive that there had been no mistake made in timing MacGregor and they submitted their stop watches and measuring tape as "exhibits A, B and C."

Under cross-examination Attorney Gaylord asked Novack how much experience he had with stop watches. "Enough to know how to start one," replied the witness, and Balliff Rose had to stop "paging" missing talesmen and hurry back into the courtroom to preserve decorum.

Detective Spaulding created a great deal of amusement by insisting that he was watching MacGregor's face at the same instant he saw the front wheels of MacGregor's car pass over the line that marked the end of the timing dash.

"How could you have been looking at both the same time?" demanded Gaylord.

"I don't know, but I was," insisted the sleuth. "I never could forget that face. He had his hat off and his hair was flying—he had a hair-cut since—and when he passed me I snapped the watch and waved to Mott up on the hill above to get him," but MacGregor just swerved to one side when the officer stepped out, and he never stopped at all. We all got his number."

"How did you see the front wheels reach the line if you were looking at the man's face?" persisted Gaylord.

"Now answer my question," the witness thought a moment and then replied pleasantly:

"The front wheels had to come first unless he was running backwards."

That was about the extent of the testimony save that MacGregor got on the stand and testified that if he was exceeding the speed limit he did not know it, and that he did not deem the fact of being in view of the condition of the road at that point.

Prosecuting Attorney Ballantyne told the jury that unless a verdict of guilty was brought in Piedmont in the future could be powerless to regulate automobile traffic within the town limits. He insisted that the evidence was conclusive and that the defense had offered no excuse.

DID MACGREGOR KNOW?

Gaylord, on the other hand, quoted the Pennsylvania Supreme Court's interpretation of a similar statute to the one in force here, holding that a "rate of a mile in three minutes" could not be made to apply to a distance less than a mile. He also insisted that the prosecution had failed to establish that Ricardo street was a public highway, or that MacGregor was conscious at the time he was driving the machine.

"Well, MacGregor is a friend of mine," said Ballantyne, "and I know that he doesn't drink, and I'm sure he wasn't asleep, and I'm sure the court will take judicial knowledge of it's being a public highway."

With that the case was given over to the jury at 11 p. m. and Marshal Rose locked them in the pantry behind the fire house. In the courtroom Karl Nickel, the architect, took the center of the stage and endeavored to prove to everybody's satisfaction that when Ballantyne in his closing argument had said "Ergo" he meant that an automobile sixteen feet long, if started up a hill at the rate of thirty miles an hour and stopped in ten feet, would have dropped back six feet.

IMPROMPTU MINSTRELS.

George Q. Chase of the music firm of Kohler & Chase, John F. Smith of Smith Bros., P. H. Coop and others organized an impromptu minstrel show with MacGregor as end man and the police department as interior actor.

Foreman Little, the jury got tired and went out to the judge that they could come to no agreement. Magistrate Craig sent in word that they had to. Ten minutes later the jury said that the last four ballots had showed no change. "We want to go home, judge, while the cars are running."

Ten ballots had been taken, the first showing seven to five for conviction, the second six to six, the third seven to five for acquittal, the sixth and seventh seven to five for conviction, and all the others eight to four for conviction.

Magistrate Craig thereupon expressed his sorrow at the failure of the town's first effort to convict a law-breaker and dismissed the jury with a wave of the hand. The question of a second trial for MacGregor will be settled when Alfred W. Wehe's case comes up on the evening of the 17th. Wehe is also charged with exceeding the speed limit and was the second out of fifty-nine people arrested to demand a jury trial. MacGregor is still out on $30 bail.

HINTS AT SENSATIONS IN BESSIE BELL INQUEST

Mrs. Scott and Mrs. Theresa Bell Add to Mystery in San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO, July 12.—The mysterious death of Mrs. Bessie Bell in a private sanatorium in this city Sunday morning, following her sudden disappearance from the residence of Mrs. Mary Scott, 4416 Twentieth street, April 10, has brought out the startling announcement by Fred Bell, one of the heirs of the deceased, that he has been accused by his stepmother, Mrs. Theresa Bell, of causing the death of his wife.

It became known yesterday, according to allegations, that Mrs. Bell had expressed fear of her husband on account of the complications which involved the dealing back to Bell of the property he had given her years ago. At the instigation of Mrs. Theresa Bell, a petition had been drawn during the latter's absence for the appointment of a guardian for the woman. This was awaiting presentation to Judge Coffey of the probate department of the Superior Court, when death came.

Fred Bell scouted the idea that he could have had anything to do with the woman's death, and declares that it came through natural causes. "This fact, he insists, will be proved after the inquest, when the city chemist has examined the dead woman's stomach in an effort to find traces of poison."

WOMAN NOT SATISFIED.

Mrs. Scott, however, declares she is not satisfied with this statement, and says that she expects the inquest to develop from the examination, there is a lingering doubt in her mind based entirely upon the fears expressed by Bessie Bell that her husband wanted to get her out of the way.

"It was not Fred Bell who started the coroner's investigation of his wife's death," Mrs. Scott said yesterday. "Last Saturday before the passed away, Dr. John F. Sullivan went to the coroner and asked him to look into the matter, because we had heard she was in a serious condition."

Mrs. Scott stated that the examination might show she had died from alcohol poisoning, but it puzzled her to know how she got the alcohol in the sanatorium. The woman was healthy and Dr. Sullivan is said to have told Mrs. Scott that she could not have died from alcohol poisoning unless large quantities had been forced upon her after she had left the Scott home where she had been in splendid health. According to Mrs. Scott, the dead woman had not been drinking very much just previous to her leaving.

GAVE HER MONEY.

A few days before leaving the Scott home Mrs. Bell said her husband had offered her money to pay the small bill she owed and Mrs. Scott states she had refused to accept her things and go away with Bell in an automobile, expressing her fears that he would kidnap her and lock her up.

"She left here on the morning of April 10 and we knew nothing of her until the middle of June when Mrs. Theresa Bell telephoned to me one day to say that she had discovered Bessie. She was very excited," said Mrs. Scott.

"Fred has locked her up in a sanatorium and is killing her," was the message.

"That was the first I had heard about his poisoning her, and I notified Dr. Sullivan. They would not let him see her. We tried several times to go to the sanatorium, but Dr. Behring, who runs the place, would not let me or Mrs. Theresa Bell, see the unfortunate woman."

"While Bessie was with me," Mrs. Scott continued, "her husband tried every threat he could use to get her away, but she was afraid of him. She would never have gone to him. He had given her his share of his father's estate and it was her plan to secure a trusteeship over the money on terms that would give one-fifth to Bell's son by his former wife and the remainder to herself and Bell in equal parts."

"She confided to me that once she secured this division of the property she intended to separate from him entirely and go to Europe that she might never see him again."

HINTS AT SURPRISE.

Mrs. Scott intimated that possibly there might be a surprise at the inquest over the body of Mrs. Bell.

Mrs. Theresa Bell was the leading petitioner in the matter of securing the appointment of a guardian to look after Bessie Bell's interests, and the papers had been drawn up by Attorney James U. Wenner, 1029 Merchants' Exchange building, when the news came of the woman's death.

Wenner said yesterday that notwithstanding the fact that Bell had made the statement that his wife had transferred her property to him before she had left the Scotts, Bessie Bell was still in possession on May 26, for on that day she gave power of attorney to Daniel A. McColgan, the money lender who had advanced large sums to Bell.

When Bell was confronted with these facts last night he denied that he had said it. Later in the evening McColgan, a friend and adviser of Bell, said that the transfer was not made until June 20, when it was thought that Bessie Bell was dying. A notary was hastily summoned to the sanatorium and a deed was filed out and she signed it in the presence of several witnesses. This was about the time Mrs. Theresa Bell had discovered where her daughter-in-law had been taken.

DODGES DISCUSSION.

Attorney Wenner said he could not discuss the grounds upon which he intended to ask for the appointment of guardian for Bessie Bell. In company with Earl Dow, Bessie Bell's brother-in-law, Mrs. Theresa Bell had been denied admittance to the room of the sick woman, and suspecting foul play they sought to protect her property rights.

Mrs. Theresa Bell confirmed the statement last night, but denied that she had informed the police of the circumstances concerning Bessie Bell's death. She said her stepson was anxious to get back from her the property he had given his wife when it seemed worthless and that Bessie Bell was determined to not give it back unconditionally.

"I do not say that Fred poisoned his wife, but I do say that I believe he caused her to become addicted to drink in the hope that he could get her to sign the property over to him. He has been trying to do this for some time."

CONFIRMED BY RECORD.

The estimate of the character of the man convicted by the detectives of the Oakland force was confirmed this morning by his prison record. Dorns, alias Bradley, was a vicious prisoner, resenting control, hating the prison life with the bitterness of a caged beast. Sentenced to twelve years, he served almost the full term as a result of losing credits for bad behavior.

Dorns was arraigned before Judge William Smith, this morning on a murder charge preferred by Harry G. Williams, a brother of the murdered man, and the case was set for next Wednesday morning for preliminary hearing.

The murderer informed the police this morning that he had been at one time the champion wrestler in the light and welterweight classes in the British and American navies, and had held that honor for some time. Dorns, alias Bradley, is a superb physical specimen for his height, and with his crop of shaggy hair and a suggestion of the "abysmal brute" made famous by Jack London. The murderer is a typical example of those strange biological atavisms harking back to an earlier evolutionary period.

Dorns murdered Policeman Williams just nine days after he had been released from Los Angeles prison. He was released from Los Angeles prison on May 7, 1904, after serving a "life" term for petty larceny. He went to San Luis Obispo a few days after his release from the Los Angeles prison. He had been but a few days in the city when he committed a burglary. He was arrested, tried and convicted of the crime. On August 12, 1904, he was sentenced to twelve years in Folsom penitentiary.

He served nearly his full term, bad behavior in prison cutting down his term. He was released from Folsom April 12, 1912. Nine days afterward, April 21, he murdered Williams.

"But Mr. Roosevelt was not governed by that spirit of high patriotic and unselfish purpose of which Bryan furnished such a magnificent example one week later at the Democratic convention at Baltimore. Instead he filled the public ear with sounds and fury. He ruthlessly sacrificed everything to the idea of his being one candidate. He nagged his followers in the convention without putting on record any facts upon which the public could base a definite, intelligent judgment regarding the validity of Taft's nomination. He submitted no suggestion as to the platform of progressive principles. He ignored loud-ly for purging the platform of all tainted delegates without passing his hand over his tainted contacts and his record in a past life. He offered no reason for the most sweeping charges against the Taft administration for a third term."

ARIZONA LEGISLATION AIMED AT ALIEN MINERS

PHOENIX, Ariz., July 12.—According to a decision rendered by Assistant Attorney General Carpenter, the proposed legislation to prohibit persons unable to speak English from engaging in mining or other hazardous occupations will go before the voters under the initiative provision of the constitution at the general election next November. This legislation was provided for in the Kinney bill, which failed of passage at the recent session of the legislature. The decision of Carpenter clears the situation developed when an initiative petition from Morenci failed to arrive at the secretary of state's office before the expiration of the time limit on July 5. The number of signatures on the other petitions fell short of the number required, but Carpenter ruled that the Morenci petition might now be certified and thus meet the requirements.

SPROULE APPOINTS NEVADA BALLOT NEW RAILROAD CHIEFS MINUS TAFT MEN

President of Southern Pacific Makes Sweeping Changes in Force.

POWER OF CALVIN GREATLY INCREASED

W. R. Scott Becomes General Manager and Luce Freight Traffic Head.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 12.—The most sweeping changes among the officers of the Southern Pacific railroad since the death of E. H. Harriman were announced last evening by William Sproule, president of the company, just before he left for Oregon. Sproule, who is in supreme command of the Southern Pacific lines west of El Paso and Ogden and north to Portland, authorized the changes to increase the efficiency of his administration. The changes and new appointments which become effective next Monday, are:
G. W. Luce, freight traffic manager.
E. E. Calvin, vice-president in charge of operation and construction.
A. H. Babcock, consulting electrical engineer of the Southern Pacific and subsidiary companies.
Thos. A. Graham, assistant freight traffic manager.
A. H. Rising, general freight agent for the central district.
W. F. Taylor, assistant general freight agent for the central district.
C. F. Lathrop, assistant general freight agent for the central district.
J. M. Fulton, assistant general freight and passenger agent for the central district, headquarters, Reno, Nev.
G. J. Blech, district freight agent for the southern district, headquarters, Los Angeles.
F. S. McGinnis, district passenger agent for the southern district, headquarters, Los Angeles.
C. J. Mills, assistant to the president.
H. A. Jones, assistant treasurer.
W. R. Scott, general manager.
C. H. Redington, assistant treasurer, retired on a pension after forty-five years of honorable service.
Office of assistant to vice-president in charge of traffic abolished.
Chairman of the Board of Directors Robert S. Lovett and the bankers behind the Southern Pacific hold President Sproule responsible for the company as an income producer and have sanctioned his new official program.

INCREASE CALVIN'S POWER.
President Sproule has seen fit to increase the authority of Vice-President Calvin and will hold him responsible hereafter for the operating and construction affairs. Calvin's assistant, W. R. Scott, becomes general manager under him to help him with his increased duties. Both Calvin and Scott are self-made men and rank high as practical railroad officials. For grasp of the American transportation problem on its operating side and its attitude towards the public, there is probably no better authority in this country than Calvin.

Scott is considered a tower of strength for the Harriman interests because of his successful role as peacemaker. He stands high in the esteem of all railroad brotherhoods and has sat as an arbitrator in their disputes not only with the Southern Pacific, but with all the railroads west of Chicago. It is said of both Scott and Calvin that their door is always open for the humblest of their employees who want a favor or have a complaint to make. Luce, as the new freight traffic manager, gets what is considered a deserved promotion from President Sproule. Both were freight men together under John C. Stubbs and learned their business from that traffic Gamaliel. Among the shippers and merchants of this community Luce has a reputation of never having broken a promise.

Next to Sproule and E. O. McCormick, the new freight traffic manager is looked upon as the company's strongest card with the public. He is an authority on the interstate commerce law and is the company's ablest witness on the stand in all traffic suits.

PUPILS OF MASTER.
Graham, who is to be Luce's assistant, and Rising, the new general freight agent, were pupils for years under both Sproule and Luce. In higher Southern Pacific officialdom they constitute new blood and much is expected from them in their new careers.

Mills, as the new assistant to the president, has won his place because of his mastery of details and his successful role as a sphinx. Mills knows everything about the company's affairs, but never talks to anybody but Sproule about railroad matters.
C. H. Redington, who retires as assistant treasurer, has handled in his forty-five years with the company over a billion dollars. With all that volume he is credited with never having made a serious mistake. The duties of the office of assistant treasurer here are constantly increasing and Sproule has seen fit to put in there as Redington's successor H. A. Jones, formerly freight traffic manager, and a man who for years has been much thought of by John C. Stubbs and Chairman Robert S. Lovett. Jones is a southern merchant from Texas who succeeded Sproule as freight traffic manager after the 1906 fire when Sproule went to New York with the Guggenheims.

VISALIA MAN DRAGGED 40 FEET BY AUTOMOBILE

VISALIA, July 12.—When George Tachumy, a local business man, cranked up his auto yesterday, he was hurried and may have suffered internal injuries when the car leaped forward, knocked him down and dragged him about forty feet before Mrs. Tachumy, who was in the car, could shut off the spark. The car had been left in gear accidentally, and when the engine was cranked the machine started. The automobile was knocked over backward and was dragged on its back over the stone street. His back was scraped almost bare of skin and the loose rock in the street inflicted ugly cuts and contusions. Few, if any, medicines have met with the uniform success that has attended the use of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. The remarkable cures of colic, cholera and diarrhoea which it has effected in a most rapid and reliable manner, have been the cause of its widespread popularity.

Failure to Name Electors Causes Irremediable Error in Sagebrush State.

CARSON CITY, Nev., July 12.—President Taft may be without representation on the official ballot of the Republican party of Nevada at the elections to be held next fall. A peculiar condition has been discovered by the regular organization.

By an oversight, which now seems irremediable, the State Convention which elected delegates to the Chicago convention, neglected to nominate Presidential electors, as provided for by the State law. There seems to be no way of getting their electors on the ballot. The electors cannot be named by petition, for a convention was held and has acted. A conference of party leaders discussed today the possibility of holding another convention, but they will do so with reluctance, if at all, for they fear the Roosevelt forces on another trial might capture the organization. Thus far, no way out of the muddle has been discovered, and the difficulties of the situation are admitted to be grave. A petition naming delegates to the Progressive convention, to be held in Chicago next month, was circulated yesterday.

ARMY MEASURE'S TEETH ARE PULLED

Reconstructed Bill Is Ordered Favorably Reported From Senate Committee.

WASHINGTON, July 12.—The reconstructed army appropriation bill, shorn of the proposed plan to legislate Major-General Wood out of office and stripped of other features objectionable to the administration, was ordered favorably reported to the Senate by the military affairs committee yesterday. The Pepper bill to bring the National Guard into closer touch with the regular army has been favorably reported by the House military affairs committee. Under the bill the federal government would disburse about $8,000,000 a year to the 10,000 commissioned officers and the 112,000 enlisted men of the National Guard. The secretary of war and the military boards of states would be authorized to work out a plan of co-operation.

ACTRESS WANTS CASH FOR TRIFLING WITH AFFECTION

NEW YORK, July 12.—Miss Ruth L. Trufant, the actress, wants Henry G. Williams, millionaire proprietor of the Hotel York, to pay her $50,000 for alleged breach of promise to marry her. In her complaint she alleges that after waiting long and patiently for Williams to keep his promise, made to her for the first time in December, 1904, she obtained from him a confession that he already had a wife from whom he was not divorced.

The special purpose of the meeting is to plan a campaign in behalf of the constitutional amendment proposed at the special session of the Legislature last winter to allow the bonds of irrigation districts to be used as security for public money deposited in banks. Some opposition to the amendment has been expressed and it is deemed desirable to raise a small fund in order that the voters may be informed of the importance of the measure to the people of the irrigation districts.

PANIC DAMS TEARS OF WEEPY DRAMA

Supposed Temblor Stampedes Audience, Rudely Disturbing "East Lynn."

SAN FRANCISCO, July 12.—The heart-breaking moments of a condensed version of the weepy play "East Lynn," which were being faithfully portrayed to the accompaniment of sobs on the stage of the Republic Theater, last night, were suddenly overbalanced by shrieks in the audience and a wild stampede for the door. Four women fainted, several men were slinked hurt in an effort to quiet the multitude and Miss Virginia Thornton, who was on the stage, stepped to the footlights, dazed and pale, and with the emotion of her part, and bravely sought to preserve order.

Cries of earthquake, however, filled the air, and it was not until the real cause of the scene was ascertained that the audience resumed their seats.

It was just about 9 p. m. and many handkerchiefs were out among the theatergoers in the throng, when the structure, which is a class A building, shook and a distant sound could be heard. It seemed like a rumble and the audience made no doubt that it was a temblor.

It was all caused by a Sutter street car, which going at a rapid rate, jumped the track in front of the theater and was turned around until the fender was almost on the sidewalk. When quiet had been restored, the play of "East Lynn," Virginia Thornton and company, was repeated from the beginning.

NOTED EDUCATORS DISCUSS PROBLEMS

Rural Conditions Are Gone Into by Experts in Teaching.

CHICAGO, July 12.—Although the ranks of the educators in attendance at the National Education Association were somewhat depleted before the morning session of this, the closing day, was called, there was a large attendance to hear the final discussions which were by educators of this country and of Europe. The first regular meeting of the day was scheduled for 9:30 o'clock. The subject for discussion was "Rural Life Conditions and Rural Education."

The subject was to be taken up in five branches. Warren F. Wilson, director of missions, New York City, was to make a social and educational survey of the rural community. T. R. Foust, superintendent of schools, Greensboro, N. C.; A. C. Alderman, state superintendent of schools, Salem, Oregon; and James H. Worst, president of North Dakota Agricultural College, were to tell what is being done to meet the problem in their respective communities.

Other phases of the subject were allotted for discussion to Mary E. DeGarmo, director of Country Life department, National Congress of Mothers, St. Louis; E. J. Russell, director of Rohamsted experimental station, Harpenden, England; and Philander Claxton, United States commissioner of education, Washington, D. C.

PLANK ON INCOME TAX SOUGHT FOR

Democrats at Milwaukee Engage in Struggle Over Platform.

MILWAUKEE, July 12.—A clash over the income tax plank of the platform was one of the possibilities that faced the Democratic state convention today. Rumors were current that a minority report on the plank as drawn up by the majority of the committee last night would be presented.

It was said that the plank in the provisional platform provided for the amendment of the law and the submission of the amendment to a referendum vote of the people. This was too mild a declaration to suit the radical element, who stood for the repeal of the law.

Besides the adoption of the platform the convention was expected to name candidates for state officers. In keeping with the ruling of Chairman Kearney, last night, the convention was not bound to limit itself to endorsing any one candidate for each office.

A. J. Schmitz and J. C. Karel were nominated for Governor by the convention last night.

POWER COMPANY BUYING LANDS AT RICHMOND

RICHMOND, July 12.—The Great Western Power Company, which has had the power lines through this city for several months past and has a franchise to do business in serving light and power, is evidently not going to stay in this neck, for it is negotiating for property in both the northern and western sections of the city for the purpose of erecting its sub-station and material yards upon.

The present Western States Gas and Electric Company has the field to itself in the electrical business but the Great Western has secured some big power contracts among the manufacturing interests here and a keen competition for business may not be expected.

SELF-DEFENSE CLAIM KEEPS CHEF FROM JAIL

RICHMOND, July 12.—A jury in Police Judge's court today found that the defendant, William Vanderhaar, chef at Willie's Cafe, charged with battery by Willie Pete, employed at the restaurant, was not guilty.

Pete alleged in his complaint that he was struck several times by Vanderhaar when the latter became provoked and that his injuries had to be treated by a physician to stop the flow of blood from the wounds inflicted by Vanderhaar, defended by Attorney Johnson, claimed self-defense and this was sustained by the jury and the defendant discharged by the court.

COUNCIL WILL PASS ON CITY ESTIMATES

ALABAMA, July 12.—At the meeting of the council committee tonight the report of Auditor J. C. Conley on the departmental estimates for the fiscal year ending September 30, 1913, was passed and the council will pass on the estimates, including $250,000 for the city and $250,000 for the county.

AGAINST ANNEXATION.

EDITOR TRIBUNE: To those on the fence regarding annexation, I think after a careful, thoughtful study of the following and applying the principles contained therein they will see a light and be against such a move.

If a public body legalizing an act of annexation, in such a small matter as the selecting of a handmaster, that he should be a resident of San Francisco and just because he resides in that coveted territory they are clamoring to annex it is therefore unfitted to serve, though of recognized superior ability, wherein lies our advancement and gain?

The writer has been in favor of a Greater San Francisco, but if this be the underlying spirit which one cannot help but feel that it is, being endorsed by its city attorney, from thus on it's me for good old Oakland going it alone.

Everyone is predicting a great increase in population both around the bay and throughout the State, but how are you going to gain this increase except you welcome it? If the man of character, ability and means from afar desires locating here and is willing so to receive him, why not let him come to him a livelihood in fair competition with his fellows, are you going to so hedge your bets as to let him come to you and then ask him to leave?

It seems like a rumble and the audience made no doubt that it was a temblor. It was all caused by a Sutter street car, which going at a rapid rate, jumped the track in front of the theater and was turned around until the fender was almost on the sidewalk.

mediated action, to put thirteen Roosevelt electors, under the Republican heading, on the official ballot at the next ensuing presidential election, and to use the legislative machinery framed up and enacted by his direction, to prevent those Republicans who favor President Taft from having any chance to vote for him, either directly or indirectly, unless they write the names of thirteen presidential electors on their ballots.

This necessity of immediate and timely action, on the part of the Republican publican, must be apparent to all interested observers.

No candidate for the senate or assembly can be voted for at the primary election to be held September 3, 1912, unless, at least thirty-five days prior thereto, a nomination paper, in his behalf, signed by not less than one per centum and not more than two per centum of the voters of his party, within his assembly or senatorial district, shall be filed with the secretary of state, and a filing fee of ten dollars paid thereon.

The importance of immediate action cannot be overestimated. The presidential campaign opens, while men, who have their determination to defeat the nominee of the Republican party, stand idly by and plot to steal thirteen presidential electors and the presidency of the United States, party for president of the United States, party for president of the United States, party for president of the United States.

Great and momentous national issues are in controversy throughout the country. In California, in addition to seven congressmen, we must elect eighty assemblymen and twenty senators who will vote on the election of United States senators, adopt a platform for the Republican party and nominate thirteen presidential electors; while the state and county committees of the Republican party are in the hands of those who refuse to support its nominees.

This is the situation. Who will move and act in a loyal effort to secure and organize loyal state and county committees of the Republican party? Who will steadfastly support its nominees, both national and local? Who will enter the struggle in his assembly for senatorial district, in the state, in the legislature and elsewhere, to redeem the Republican party from the traitors who have seized its standard?

To further to disband, to surrender to traitors, to fall now in recognizing the duty and need of action, would be to renounce the purposes of a lifetime, the approval of the Republican party, the gratitude of posterity, to satisfy the ambitious designs of those determined to defeat and destroy the Republican party of California, by palpable misuse and abuse of the power of the people, to disfranchise the people, to deprive them of the right of suffrage, to deprive them of the right of suffrage, to deprive them of the right of suffrage.

There should be no hesitancy in the mind of every patriotic citizen, no matter what may be his political affiliation, to resent such misuse and abuse of a public trust, and which abuse excels in infamy the repeated efforts of the traitors to give to the control of certain American commonwealths.

Sincerely yours,
ALVA UDELL

EDITOR TRIBUNE: I herewith enclose copy of a circular from the Loyal Republicans of California, which I hope may be sufficiently energetic to be of some assistance in enlisting those who appear to be too timid to take appropriate action necessary to assure success of the Republican cause in California.

I will further state that as a petition of his recall is now in the printer's hands, and such petition, with an explanatory letter to those interested, will soon be forthcoming.

Respectfully yours,
ALVA UDELL

San Francisco, Cal., July 10, 1912.
To the Loyal Republicans of California: It is a part of the unwritten law, the land that the presidential electors, chosen in any state, shall cast their votes, in the electoral college, for the nominees of the political party to which they claim to belong.

The "third terms," directed by the governor of California, now propose to use the power of their hands, under the forms of the law, to deprive themselves of a deliberate denial of the right of Loyal Republicans to vote at the governor's election for the presidential nominees of the Republican party. Governor Johnson proposes, by his premediated action, to put thirteen Roosevelt electors, under the Republican heading, on the official ballot at the next ensuing presidential election, and to use the legislative machinery framed up and enacted by his direction, to prevent those Republicans who favor President Taft from having any chance to vote for him, either directly or indirectly, unless they write the names of thirteen presidential electors on their ballots.

This necessity of immediate and timely action, on the part of the Republican publican, must be apparent to all interested observers.

Abe Ruef and Dr. Pardee.

In the last installment of Abe Ruef's confessions, recollections, or whatever one chooses to call them, printed in yesterday's San Francisco Bulletin, the ex-boss details some of his experiences with George C. Pardee. What he says is interesting. In a previous chapter, Ruef related how he and Schmitz had endeavored to stem the tide in San Francisco against Pardee when he was running for Governor against Franklin K. Lane. In the latest installment he tells of Pardee's lively appreciation of the assistance Schmitz and Ruef had given him, also of the promises Pardee made to the pair while the campaign was in progress.

"Pardee promised the mayor (Schmitz) his official support, recognition and friendship if elected," says Ruef. "He and his managers also assured me that our valuable services would be recognized and reciprocated to the fullest extent."

"Herrin also asked me to help Pardee in his candidacy. I threw myself with vigor into the fight in San Francisco. I found it extremely difficult work, but we made some impression. We certainly held in line more than enough votes to have changed the eventual result in the State. Aside from the meetings which we arranged and the vigorous and forcible nature of which I have described, I organized committees, sent for workers, and addressed audiences in Pardee's behalf. I was asked to be active at the headquarters in the Palace Hotel, and during the campaign was in frequent conference both with Pardee and his campaign manager, Charles H. Spear. John C. Lynch, Herrin's confidential political man, was often in attendance at conference."

"His gratitude was great. He authorized me to express it for him, also to Mayor Schmitz. During the campaign Herrin had contributed a large sum of money to the campaign expenses of Pardee. While at the headquarters I had myself seen some of it paid in by his representative. The Governor-elect invited me to call at his residence in Oakland, to discuss political matters. I visited him at his home by appointment on a holiday just before his induction into office. It was either Thanksgiving day or Christmas—probably the latter."

Ruef then goes on to relate how cordial and thankful Pardee was. "I owe you and the Mayor an everlasting obligation," Ruef says Pardee told him. "You may draw on me at will." Then they proceeded to talk business. It was raining when Ruef departed from the Pardee home, and the doctor courteously loaned the boss his gold-headed umbrella, which Ruef naively says he returned next day. What transpired during the conversation is told in this way:

"I said: 'Governor, there is nothing you can give me personally. But you will have a great deal of patronage to dispose of in San Francisco—places on the harbor front and others—and in giving them out we would like to have you remember us.'

"You can depend upon that," said the Governor. 'I will consult you on the San Francisco patronage. I'll help you out down there. That's in accordance with our talks and my wishes. Run up to Sacramento and see me about it whenever you can.' I explained to the Governor the position of the Labor party, how I thought it could be made to affiliate with the Republican rather than with the Democratic party, and why it should do so. I told the Governor that I seldom went to the capitol, but that I could communicate with him otherwise just as well, which was perfectly agreeable, and the Governor told me that I could write to him, or communicate through Charley Spear, who, he informed me, would be appointed Harbor Commissioner, and who was 'a friend of both of us.'

"The conversation turned to other men who had aided in the campaign. The Governor severely criticized some whom he called pretenders, who were now putting in claims to recognition and political reward but in the time of battle were skulkers, or even traitors. His whistlers bristled as he spoke of them.

"Of a sudden the Governor said: 'What do you think of Herrin? Was he straight in this fight?'

"I answered that I certainly thought so; that while we had not done much politics together, he had personally asked me to aid, and I knew that he had contributed money to the campaign. I had seen a considerable amount of it paid into the headquarters myself.

"Pardee said: 'I had an idea that he was not loyal in this fight.'

"I told him that I had heard that the railroad was at first inactive, but that I had seen evidences of its interest throughout the campaign. Herrin's personal representatives were at headquarters daily. The orders were certainly out in the last days of the fight to get behind Pardee. Spear certainly knew of it, because he was in close touch. The Governor said he wanted to know about the matter because of the requests that would be made of him and the attitude he should assume. He seemed glad to have the information which I gave him. We talked of many other things. We went over the question of patronage again. As the hour drew nigh for the last train to leave for San Francisco I arose to go. The Governor accompanied me to the door. His last words at the door were:

"Remember, Abe, the word 'welcome' is always on the mat for you, both here and in Sacramento."

"This interview was the germ of the Santa Cruz convention four years after, which led to the complete betrayal of the Union Labor party to the Southern Pacific."

This last statement probably leads up to the reason why Pardee failed in his efforts to make an alliance with Ruef and Schmitz at Santa Cruz four years later, when he was a candidate for reelection. The public is familiar with the story of the famous interview between Pardee and Ruef on the veranda of the Sea Beach hotel on the eve of the Republican State Convention; also with its abortive result, but neither party has ever told—to the public, at least—what was said during the conference between the Governor and the boss. Doubtless there will be considerable variance between the versions, provided the doctor will give his side of the story, but the public can judge between the veracity of the two men. THE TRIBUNE is an unbiased observer, and will vouch for neither.

The Danger of Republican Division.

Woodrow Wilson has announced that the tariff will be the issue in the pending campaign. He is right. The tariff, or rather the protective policy, is again under fire. The Democrats are frankly opposed to it, and a large proportion of Roosevelt's followers are clamoring for a revision of the tariff downward. They are attacking the protective features of the schedules. They are continually denouncing the present tariff law, and in Congress they have been voting with the Democrats to strike down the protective system.

Therefore Roosevelt's candidacy is indirectly aimed at the traditional policy of protecting the labor and capital employed in industrial enterprises from destructive foreign competition—a policy that has made the United States the most prosperous on earth and American labor the best paid on the globe. This is of especial interest to California, where protection has lifted the agricultural and manufacturing industries to a level unknown elsewhere and given us the highest wage scale on record. The wool, wine, citrus fruit, lumber, edible nut, olive oil, sugar beet, raisin and dried fruit industries are in peril. The Democrats propose to lay the ax at the root of the protective system and Roosevelt's followers are helping them. Division in the Republican party means the success of the Democrats and repeal of the protective tariff.

It is impossible for Roosevelt to be elected. A casual study of the political situation throughout the country proves this. But Roosevelt may split the Republican vote and elect Wilson. Then down goes the protective tariff.

It is unreasonable to suppose that Wilson will not poll relatively as large a vote in the Northern and Western States as Bryan polled in 1908. He is sure of the South—sureer than even Bryan. He will poll a much larger vote in the border States of the South than Bryan ever could. It will be hard for any Republican with a united party behind him to carry Maryland, West Virginia, Kentucky or Missouri against him.

How can the Republicans expect to win by dividing their vote between two candidates? How can they carry close Congressional districts while engaged in bitter intestine struggle for supremacy in the face of an enemy aggressive, united, hopeful and buoyed to strenuous exertions by the factional warfare in the Republican ranks?

What State is safe in the present posture of affairs? Split off a large fragment of the Republican vote in any of the New England States, save Vermont, and the chances are that the Democrats would carry it. The battle over the Presidency would aid the Democrats in every close or doubtful Congressional district. No matter to which faction the Republican candidate belonged, the other faction would knife him and the Democrat would be the gainer.

Many Republicans would be so disgusted with the brawls and contentions in their own party ranks that they would be indisposed to vote for either Taft or Roosevelt, and would either stay at home on election day or vote for the Democratic or Prohibition candidate.

In 1908 Iowa gave Taft a plurality of 74,439 over Bryan. But Bryan polled 200,771 votes, and he was an exceptionally weak candidate. If one-third of the Republican electors should vote for Roosevelt, Wilson will inevitably carry the State. In every Congressional district, save two, the Republican nominee was elected by less than 3000 majority.

The only outcome of the election, if Roosevelt persists in running against Taft, will be the election of a Democratic President and Congress and a complete smash of the protective system—more complete even than the smash during Cleveland's second administration. Roosevelt cannot possibly be elected. The only result his candidacy can accomplish is the defeat of Taft, and a reversal of the protective policy to which the Republican party has been committed since its birth.

Taft is the only candidate who stands squarely for that policy, and his re-election is the only thing that can preserve it in this crisis. He is the regular nominee of his party, an executive of tried worth and approved capacity, and a courageous defender of the doctrines which have made the history of the Republican party glorious and the nation united and prosperous.

STARTING A CONTROVERSY

Dr. E. A. Spitzka, a Philadelphia medical man, has raised an interesting point of controversy by his declaration that operations upon crippled children should be decided on lines of public policy rather than by the decision of the parent. He takes exactly the opposite view to that advanced by a judge in the Quaker City, who decided that the issue was entirely one to be decided by the parents of the afflicted little one. Expounding his views, Dr. Spitzka says:

Parents should not be permitted to prevent an operation upon a child when that operation is absolutely essential to the child's good. If a conference of surgeons finds it possible to correct some physical deformity by an operation, then no parent should be permitted to step in and prevent that child from having at least a normal chance to compete with the rest of mankind.

The good of the community should be considered first, and laws should be so made that the parents must be forced to hand over the child for an operation at the hands of competent experts when it is deemed necessary to have an operation. This is the cold-blooded scientific view, as opposed to the purely human view of the parents, who shrink from the pain and danger that the child, suppositiously, would be subjected to in the course of the needed operation. The doctor boldly supposes that the public good—which, in this case, means the child's good—should be first considered. He maintains that this should have precedence over any views that the parents might entertain or any shrinkings that they might feel.

Of course, the world at large will be slow to adopt the doctor's ideas. In fact, if he were forced to hand over his own child for an operation at the hands of a board of doctors of sav, an opposing medical school, he would be very likely to protest most vigorously.

Nevertheless, there is merit in the view he assumes, callous as it may seem. Needless to cripple a child, to dwarf its brain or handicap its body by refusal to take advantage of the utmost that medical knowledge can offer is hardly short of criminal.

It is well to remember, however, that the parent, as a general rule, is even more anxious to lift the cloud from the darkened brain or straighten out the crippled limbs than ever the medical man can be, great as may be his pride in his profession and his desire for human advancement.—Seattle Times.

HOW I MADE MY HAIR GROW

Woman With Marvelously Beautiful Hair Gives Simple Home Prescription Which She Used With Most Remarkable Results.

I was greatly troubled with dandruff and falling hair. I tried many advertised hair preparations and various prescriptions, but they all signally failed, many of them making my hair grow so it was impossible to comb it or do it up properly. I think that many of the things I tried were positively injurious and from my own experience I can say so strongly caution you against using preparations containing wood alcohol and other poisonous substances. I believe they injure the roots of the hair. After my inner sufferings, I finally found a simple prescription which I can unhesitatingly state is beyond doubt the most wonderful thing for the hair I have ever seen. Many of my friends have also used it, and obtained wonderful effects therefrom. It not only is a powerful stimulant to the growth of the hair and for restoring gray hair to its natural color, but it is equally good for removing dandruff, giving the hair life and brilliancy, etc., and for the purpose of keeping the scalp in first-class condition. It also makes the hair easier to comb and arrange in nice form. I have a friend who used it two months and during that time it has not only stopped the falling of his hair but wonderfully increased its growth, but it practically restored all of his hair to its natural color. You can obtain the ingredients for making this wonderful preparation from almost any drugist. The prescription is as follows:

Bay Rum, 6 oz.; Menthol Crystals, 1/2 drachm; Lavender de Compose, 2 oz. You like it perfumed with drops of To-Kalon Perfume, which mixes perfectly with the other ingredients. This, however, is not necessary. Apply night and morning; rub thoroughly into the scalp.

Go to your drugist and ask for an eight-ounce bottle containing six ounces of Bay Rum, also one-half drachm of Menthol Crystals, and a two-ounce bottle of Lavender de Compose. Mix the ingredients yourself at your own home. Add the Menthol Crystals to the Bay Rum and then pour in the Lavender de Compose. Add the To-Kalon Perfume, if you wish, and stand one-half hour and it is ready for use.

PIONEER WOMAN OF STATE DEAD

Mrs. Mary Wilcox Burnett
Passes Away at Advanced Age.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 12.—Mrs. Mary Wilcox Burnett, widow of Dwight J. Burnett and daughter-in-law of the late Governor Peter H. Burnett, the first executive of the State of California, died at her residence in Visitation valley yesterday morning, shortly after midnight.

Not only is the name and family of Mrs. Burnett connected with pioneer days and pioneer families of the Pacific coast, but she is also a direct descendant of statesmen prominent in the history of the United States. She traced back her ancestry into pre-revolutionary times, among her forefathers are revolutionary heroes. An ancestor was Van Driem, who discovered Van Diemen's land; another, Mary Dudley of the Dudleys of England. Mary Dudley married Peter Wilcox, then ambassador from Scotland. The marriage was distasteful to her family, who in accord with the spirit of the times in relation to all unapproved matrimonial alliances, "disowned" her. With her husband she left Europe for America. Through these ancestors Mrs. Burnett was connected with the families of President Martin Van Buren and Alexander Hamilton. She herself was a daughter of Franklin and Harriet Wilcox, and was born in New York in 1835.

In her early youth her parents began moving westward, first settling in Iowa, where her father had charge of the Winnebago Indian agency. Later the family made its way to Oregon, to which place they traveled by ox teams in the year 1847. En route their party was belated in the Cascade mountains, where hostile Indians surrounded them. Their rescue came by pack trains, sent out by Oregonians for their relief. After a stay in Oregon the family turned its attention to California, and started for the then territory on horseback, reaching Sacramento in 1849. Here it settled for a time, and on January 29, 1850, Mary Wilcox married Dwight J. Burnett, the eldest son of Governor Burnett. For awhile the Burnett family made its home in the Santa Clara valley, but 35 years ago came to this city.

Mrs. Burnett was the mother of seven children, George S., Franklin W., Armistead Dudley, Peter H., Harriet M., Romie B. Hutchinson and the late Letitia R. Burnett.

GERALD TO REVEAL SMUGGLERS' HEAD

"Shadow Man" of Trust Will Be Given Over to Police.

LOS ANGELES, July 12.—"Bully" Gerald, original Pacific coast smuggler, late yesterday in the presence of Assistant United States Attorney Archibald named the "Shadow Man" of the smuggling trust, revealed the identity of an independent smuggler in the person of a prominent San Pedro boat owner and exposed the system of the smugglers under which he claims 200 Chinese coolies enter the United States each year.

This afternoon or early Saturday, Gerald, the first lieutenant of the "shadow man," will put in writing his statements, which the authorities believe will supply the missing links in the chain of evidence connecting the "shadow man" with smuggling operations on this coast for the last three years. His arrest will follow immediately.

Gerald is willing to furnish the missing links provided he is given immunity. This would mean simply a light sentence. Gerald only eighteen months ago was freed from prison after serving five years for smuggling.

The written confession of Gerald will involve several wealthy merchants and firms in San Francisco, Los Angeles and San Diego. As soon as a new grand jury is drawn the smuggling trust case will be taken up by Assistant United States Attorney Archibald.

The investigation probably will consist of several weeks and result in the returning of almost a score of indictments charging conspiracy to smuggle Chinese coolies into the United States. Already two men are under arrest here and two Chinese in San Francisco.

"SHADOW MAN" GETS RICHES.

Here is the story told by Gerald revealing the most gigantic and far-reaching conspiracy ever uncovered on the Pacific Coast.

"I was the original smuggler of Chinese on the Coast. Somehow I lost money. I don't know exactly why, but I did. Then the 'shadow man,' as you call him, entered the traffic. He has amassed a large fortune.

"It would take hours for me to explain all the details of the methods used by the smugglers. In China there are agents of big Pacific Coast firms and merchants who need cheap labor to work in their gardens and fields. These agents superintend the assembling and shipping of healthy Chinese coolies into Escondido, Mexico. Why they arrive there under cover of darkness and in the daytime, too, by the boatload. Here other agents take them in hand and they are mustered into the twenty or more Chinese rooming houses operated by these agents.

"Although the coolies all try for speedy transportation to the United States via the Pacific Coast, they are not permitted to leave until they are penniless. Then they are banded together in groups of ten, fifteen or twenty, usually, and prepared for transportation to the United States. Before they leave they are made to sign contracts that they will work out the cost of transportation to the United States in labor for a certain firm or merchant. I'll explain this contract later. The Chinese virtually sell themselves into slavery.

"Then the agents operating the boats out of Long Beach and San Diego are notified. They proceed to Escondido and land at points designated by signal lights. They are then taken aboard and the trip begins. The Chinese engaging the traffic can tell a Government boat as far as the eye can see. Ordinarily they know the position of the government schooners before leaving Escondido. San Francisco is the usual point of destination. There is a greater demand for Chinese labor there than at Los Angeles.

MERCHANTS PAY FEE.

"Upon arrival in San Francisco the smuggling coolies become the property of the merchant or firm who engaged them. He is charged according to conditions existing in the traffic. If the immigration men are on the alert and the trip is dangerous the price is usually $850. If conditions are favorable for the trip the price is $400 or $500. This is paid by the firm or merchant purchasing the Chinese.

"Under the contract the coolies receive $12 a day for services in the fields of the merchants or firm.

"The one dollar he keeps and the other fifty cent go toward paying off his indebtedness to his employer, or owner as he really is. In almost every case this means life slavery, as the Chinese is not sufficiently educated to keep track of the money he pays to his employer. You can readily see the great profits to be made in smuggling and the purchasing of the coolies. It is practically all profit. And it's slavery, I tell you."

AGED WOMAN ARRESTED; CHARGED WITH THEFT

PORTLAND, Or., July 12.—One of the most clever bunco artists ever encountered by police officers in the city was yesterday arrested by the police who gives the name of Mrs. Anna Wood—was arrested yesterday in the apartments of Miss Amanda Slavetkopp, a trained nurse. The clever artist had been visiting Dr. William M. Campbell, a prominent physician, out of $20, and Roy Fletcher J. H. Black out of $150.

The woman declared that she was the owner of a large estate in the east and that she had $20,000 in a bank at Santa Rosa, Cal., and displayed a checkbook on the bank to prove her claims. But there have been found to be fictitious. It was by exhibiting these fake documents that she was enabled to persuade the priest and the physician to lend her money.

She also prevailed upon Miss Slavetkopp to board and lodge her for a week fare. She is to be held without bail for investigation.

WIDOW OF NEVILL'S INHERITS RICH MINES

SAN FRANCISCO, July 12.—By the death of Captain William A. Nevill, a San Francisco Nevill's second wife inherits some of the best mining properties of the Mother Lode of California. The Rawhide and the Apo mines in the near Jamestown, are included in the properties left Mrs. Nevill. Each of these mines has produced about $500,000. The funeral of Captain Nevill took place this morning at 11:15 from the parlors at 1115 from under the streets. Captain Nevill, who came from an old English titled family, moved to Canada with his parents when he was two years old. As a boy he set out to make his fortune, serving in the British army in Canada and England until he reached California, where he became one of the foremost mining men in the state. Captain Nevill, who had been suffering from diabetes, was 59 years at the time of his death. Besides his second wife he is survived by his mother, who is in her 105th year, and one son, William E. Nevill, the child of his first wife who died. Although he had been in poor health for several years Captain Nevill continued to actively direct his affairs up till last Friday.

TUFTS IS GUILTY OF WIFE'S CHARGE

"Oriental Mystic" Must Pay Penalty for $100,000 Fraud.

LOS ANGELES, July 12.—The jury in the case of Gorham Tufts Jr., accused of having gained possession of approximately $100,000 from his wife, formerly a Mrs. Rose of Fort Worth, Tex., by the fraudulent power of attorney, returned a verdict at 10:35 last night finding Tufts guilty. He was remanded for sentence. His attorneys indicated that an appeal might be taken. This was Tufts' second trial, the jury in the first hearing having disagreed. Tufts was charged with using in California papers, granting him power of attorney in Texas. His defense was that he did not know this power was valid in California and that he had no intention of using it fraudulently. It was claimed that Tufts used the money he is alleged to have secured in furthering the interests of the so-called "Church of God," a mystic Oriental sect of which he was the acknowledged head.

DEER HUNT LEADS TO THREATS OF MURDER

REDWOOD CITY, July 12.—A dispute over the ownership of a large four pronged buck led to the arrest and arraignment yesterday of Henry Danz, proprietor of the Redwood roadhouse, on a charge of assault with intent to commit murder preferred by J. S. Miguel, a deputy sheriff of San Mateo county. Danz and Miguel were deer hunting with different parties in the hills back of Miramar when one of the hunters bagged a big buck. Both Danz and Miguel claimed to have fired the fatal shot, and when the latter attempted to carry away the carcass, the roadhouse keeper is alleged to have frightened him away with a loaded rifle. Danz was arraigned on the felony charge before Justice of the Peace H. W. Lamphorn and his preliminary hearing was set for July 17.

OIL CONCERN LONG UNDER SUSPICION

Postoffice Inspectors Had Eye on California Consolidated Company.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 12.—Out of the tangled webwork of the California Consolidated Oil Co. which collapsed a few days ago in New York there is beginning to loom for its promoters a new prosecution of a Federal investigation started months ago by Postoffice Inspectors in New York. It was learned yesterday that Postoffice Inspector Webster of this city is at present in New York, listening to the complaints of scores of poor investors whose money was lured into the oil company's treasury by the heroic figure of the late Fighting Bob Evans whose name and popularity were used advantageously by the promoters of the company. Webster got to New York just in time to witness the crash. It became known yesterday also that the Postoffice Department had started its investigation months before Admiral Evans died. Dozens of stockholders in the company were interviewed secretly. Officers of the company and fiscal agents of the concern were also questioned by postoffice inspectors and even the admiral, who was at the time at the Hotel St. Francis. It is believed that Admiral Evans was duped by the officers of the company, and that when he was asked to join the company he did so believing that he was making a profitable investment in a safe and sound oil company. PROPERTIES VISITED. The properties of the company were visited by two postoffice inspectors. The affairs of the Lincoln Bond and Mortgage Company of this city, fiscal agents for the company, were investigated with the result that its connection with the Lincoln Mortgage and Trust Company in New York was established. The inspectors thought after investigation that some representations made by the company selling stock should have been much milder than they were. Admiral Evans' connection with the company was so thoroughly gone into, say the officials, that the government learned that the heroic sea fighter received a salary of $25,000, and that probably was all he ever got out of the company. Investigation of the properties disclosed that most of the advertised oil wells were held by the company only by options. The Yellowstone, Mascot and Premier oil holdings were capitalized at twice their value. And now it appears these uncertain assets were not even owned by the company. Shortly after the organization of the California Consolidated, the company got hold of the Yellowstone, in which members of the Lincoln Mortgage and Loan Company held an interest. For 520,000 shares of Yellowstone, 750,000 shares of Consolidated were exchanged and placed in the hands of the Lincoln Company as fiscal agents, with no restrictions as to its sale. This privately owned stock was sold by the Lincoln and about 1,200,000 shares floated among the public. EATS UP EXPENSES. But there were elaborately planned excursions to the property and other heavy promotion expenses to meet, and only the books of the company can tell the story of why, when the collapse came, only $25 was left in the treasury of the $10,000,000 concern. Two thousand buyers of stock are said to have put $500,000 into the company. W. I. Maderia, acting postoffice inspector, who, with Inspector Webster, went into the affairs of the company, declined to discuss the investigation yesterday. He said that the reports of this office were confidential and were made personally to the Postmaster-General. Postmaster-General Hitchcock, when seen in Washington last night, admitted that an investigation of the company had been made, but he refused to discuss the matter.

SUBJECT TO TAX THOUGH AUTO'S SOLD

BIENNIAL BRINGS BIG SUM TO SAN FRANCISCO

SAN FRANCISCO, July 12.—The sum of $335,000 was spent in San Francisco as a result of the recent convention of the General Federation of Women's clubs according to a report submitted to the Convention League yesterday by its secretary, Felton Taylor, on the financial benefits derived by this city from the big gathering. Taylor compiled the report on memoranda obtained from Mrs. F. G. Thompson, Mrs. Alfred Prestley Black and Mrs. James W. Orr, state chiefs of the General Federation of Women's clubs. The registration bureau of the convention showed a booking of 2700 visitors mostly delegates. Many of their friends were not registered. Consequently the registration bureau conservatively sets the total number of visitors at 3000. The convention lasted ten days. Allowing to each person an expenditure of $10, including hotel expenses and incidentals this would figure $30,000. But with tickets good till August 31 and capable of being extended till the last of October, many of these women have decided to stay over in San Francisco, preferring the cool weather here to the scorching summer of the East and Middle West.

BOOTH'S WITNESS TURNS HIM DOWN

Boegle Says One-Time Candidate for Mayor Was Driving an Old Skate.

"It looked like an old skate to me." This was the crushing rejoinder made by Fred Boegle, a member of the manufacturers' committee of the Chamber of Commerce, when he was called upon by Thomas Booth, candidate for mayor at the last election, to come to his assistance in the police court this morning when Booth was on trial for cruelty to animals in driving a lame horse.

Booth, who is also a manufacturer, was arrested yesterday by Humane Officer Hickey for driving a lame horse. At the time of the arrest Boegle was with Booth in the buggy, having joined him at the Chamber of Commerce.

The prosecution proved that the horse had lameness and was very lame. Booth relied upon Boegle to prove that the horse did not seem lame.

"Did I abuse this horse or urge him to go fast?" demanded Booth, after having Boegle called to the stand. Booth conducted his own case.

"It wouldn't have done you any good if you had," replied Boegle. "He looked like an old skate to me, and I noticed he was slightly lame."

"That's all," said Booth, evidently not very well pleased with his own witness.

Booth took the stand and declared that he had hired the horse and was unaware of his condition.

Judge Samuels found Booth guilty, but because of the circumstances of the case, suspended judgment.

NO CHRISTMAS TREE, SO WIFE GETS DIVORCE

Treasurer M. Davis was fond of entertaining friends, but Edward W. Davis objected to the expense and refused to eat at the table when there was company present, according to his wife's complaint upon which she obtained an interlocutory decree of divorce today. Plaintiff said that her husband was so stingy that he would not let her purchase a small Christmas tree and entertain during the holidays. The couple were married in 1889, but it was alleged that Davis told his wife that she was only a source of expense to him. Besides that, she related that he treated the family in a cruel manner. For all that she was awarded the decree.

ACCEPT CHALLENGE IS COLONEL'S ADVICE

Roosevelt Declares the Bosses Have Thrown Defi to People of United States.

ANALYZES VOTE CAST AT CHICAGO CONVENTION

Harps Further on His Defeat in Editorial Contributed to Outlook.

NEW YORK, July 12.—Theodore Roosevelt further discusses the seating of contested delegations in the Republican national convention at Chicago in an editorial entitled "Thou Shalt Not Steal," which appears in the current issue of the Outlook. He says in part: "The American people are entitled to know that the charge of stealing the Chicago convention of 1912 is more than campaign recrimination and that the frauds complained of are much more serious than the mere repetition of loose practices which might have found unfortunate precedent in some previous conventions of both parties."

"Seriously and literally, President Taft's renomination was stolen from him from the American people and the ratification or rejection of that nomination raises the critical issue of either votes or fraud shall determine the selection of American Presidents."

President Taft was renominated by a majority of barely 21 votes and two of these were publicly raped at the last moment from Massachusetts. If, therefore, more than 21 of his votes were demonstrably fraudulent, all claim to an honest majority disappears. The demonstration is made by the fact that more than this number without touching on a single honestly debatable case.

CONSIDERS FOUR CASES.
"It is sufficient to consider only the four confessedly indefensible cases of California, Arizona, Washington and Texas, which alone wipe out the margin. All that the contesting parties in other cases would only increase the Roosevelt majority of the honest convention. But I wish to distinctly understand that many of these other cases were as clear as the California case itself."

"Three of these cases were a direct assault on the right of the people to select their own delegates at primary elections. In California, Arizona and Texas, the delegates were elected by the people at large, and the national committee first, and then the national Republican convention nullified the State-wide electoral principle. The national committee first, and then the national Republican convention nullified the State-wide electoral principle. The national committee first, and then the national Republican convention nullified the State-wide electoral principle."

NOMINATED BY 21.
"President Taft was nominated by 21 votes—or by 19, if the two from Massachusetts are omitted, which were counted only by the extra vote of a chairman Root that when a delegate answers present and not voting his alternate should be called to vote, and therefore, that alternate is a Taft man and the delegate a Roosevelt man."

"The men responsible for the theft of the delegates in question, care not one rap for the extra vote of any of the cases. They were concerned only with getting the requisite number of delegates. They did steal as many as many more as might have been needed. No free people can afford to submit to government by theft. If the will of the people is defeated by fraud, then the people are not free. If these rules are thus foisted on them represent the special interests instead of the people, then the interests and not the people rule. When the people are denied their only thoroughly efficient weapon, the direct primary, against this usurpation was done by the rule in California case, then under the system thus established the people cannot rule. The remedy is to break from the system."

"STOLEN VOTES."

"The same arbitrary powers have been exercised this time, and that committee, which is to act in 1916 is already elected. It is composed of men, a majority of whom, under the lead of one of their number, Mr. Barnes, have already shown their willingness to repeat in 1916 the usurpation of 1912."

"If the American people are really fit for self-government, they will instantly take up the challenge which a knot of political conspirators have so insolently thrown down."

POLITICS ENTERS DARROW TRIAL

Former Official Tells of Conference Over Campaign With Lawyer.

LOS ANGELES, July 12.—The strenuous municipal campaign of last year, in which Mayor Alexander and Job Harriman were the principals, was recalled at the bribery trial of Clarence S. Darrow today during the cross-examination of former Fire Commissioner Charles O. Hawley. Hawley had testified to calling Darrow on the telephone early on the morning of November 28, 1911, and summoning him to a political conference. It was this summons that brought Darrow to the scene of Bert H. Franklin's arrest.

A supposed alliance in the then Good Government party and the liquor interests was the subject of the conference. Hawley said his suspicion of such an alliance was strengthened by an editorial in a morning paper of November 28.

Assistant District Attorney Ford pressed the point in question and it was read to the jury.

Nearly the entire forenoon session was devoted to the cross-examination of the former official. Newspaper reporters who were present when Bert H. Franklin was arraigned on a charge of bribery last December, were expected to testify today.

At the time of his arraignment after the sensational ending of the McNamara trial, Franklin was quoted in nearly all of the local papers as saying that Darrow had nothing whatever to do with the bribery of the McNamara jurors.

During his cross-examination early in the present trial Franklin denied that he had ever made such statements, and the newspapermen were summoned to impeach the testimony of the former McNamara defense detective.

Good tomatoes are selling from 40 to 50 cents a crate, less than one-half the price they brought a year ago.

OFFICIALS INVESTIGATE DEATH OF WOMAN

SAN FRANCISCO, July 12.—Hattie L. Honsinger, the wife of a local merchant, died this morning at the Irving sanatorium, from the effects of an operation. It was desired that the body be shipped to the home of her parents in Minnesota on the Cleveland Limited today, and the county was asked to sign a death certificate. Chief Deputy Kelly, on investigating, was not satisfied that a criminal operation may not have been performed, as the woman died from peritonitis, and he therefore refused to sign the certificate. Dr. Stafford will perform an autopsy before the body is allowed to be removed. The husband left for the east today. The police department was notified.

DIES FROM EFFECTS OF TERRIBLE BEATING

ANTI-PRIZEFIGHT CRUSADE IS WAGED IN SOUTH

PASTORS HEAD BATTLE ON PUGILISTS

Los Angeles County Alone Is Expected to Return 31,000 Signatures.

Initiative Measure to Have Place on Ballot Next Election.

LOS ANGELES, July 12.—Petitions to initiate drastic anti-prize fight legislation were received in Los Angeles and distributed among all the Protestant ministers who will present them to their congregations for signatures at the church services Sunday.

The petitions already have been circulated through the northern portions of the state and the campaign is now on in the south.

To insure the placing of the proposed anti-prize fight measure on the ballot at the election next November, 31,000 signatures are needed. It is expected that almost that number will be obtained in Los Angeles county alone.

E. W. CHAPIN NAMED FOR PRESIDENT

Former Candidate Again to Head Prohibition Party This Year.

Californian Among the Honored by Being Placed in Nomination.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 12.—Eugene W. Chapin of Arizona and Illinois was nominated for the President of the United States by the national Prohibition party here today.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 12.—The Prohibition national convention took up this afternoon the nomination of candidates for President and Vice-President. Eugene W. Chapin of Arizona, the nominee of four years ago, was first placed in nomination; F. W. Emmerson of San Francisco also was named as a presidential candidate.

Several other candidates were to be named and it was evident a choice would not be made until late in the session. Andrew Jackson Houston of Texas, son of Gen. Samuel Houston, was placed in nomination for President by J. L. Campbell of Texas. Illinois seconded the nomination of E. W. Chapin.

The platform for the national campaign is as follows:

"The Prohibition party of the United States of America in convention at Atlantic City, N. J., July 11, 1912, recognizing God as the source of all governmental authority, makes the following declaration of principles:

"The alcoholic drink traffic is wrong, the most serious drain on the nation's wealth and resources, detrimental to general welfare, destructive of the inalienable rights of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness, and therefore all laws taxing or licensing a traffic that promotes crime, poverty and political corruption and spreads disease and death should be repealed. To destroy such a traffic there must be elected to power a political party that will administer the government from the viewpoint that alcoholic drink traffic is a crime and not a business and we pledge that the manufacture, importation, exportation, transportation and sale of alcoholic beverages shall be prohibited.

"We favor

"The election of United States Senators by direct vote of the people.

"Presidential term of six years and one term only.

"Uniform marriage and divorce laws.

"The extermination of polygamy and the complete suppression of the traffic in girls.

"Suffrage for women on the same terms as to men.

"Court review as to postoffice and other departmental decisions and orders; the establishment of postal savings banks; the extension of the rural delivery and the establishment of an efficient parcel post.

"The absolute protection of the rights of labor without impairment of the rights of capital.

"The settlement of all international disputes by arbitration.

"The initiative, referendum and recall.

"The tariff is a common question and should be fixed on the basis of accurate knowledge acquired by a permanent non-partisan tariff commission with ample powers.

"The abolition of child labor in the mines, workshops and factories with the rigid enforcement of laws now flagrantly violated.

"Equitable graduated income and inheritance taxes.

"Conservation of our mineral and forest resources; reclamation of arid and waste lands; urging that all mineral and timber lands and water power now owned by the government be held perpetually and leased for revenue purposes.

"Clearly defined laws for the regulation and control of corporations transacting an interstate business.

"Greater efficiency and economy in government service.

"The fundamental principles of the national prohibition party renew its allegiance and on these issues invites the cooperation of all citizens to the end that the true objects of popular government may be attained, i. e. equal and exact justice to all.

"The protection of one day in seven as a day of rest."

"WHITE OAKS" GETS SECOND PRIZE

Beat Los Angeles and San Francisco But Lose to Veteran Denver.

Elks' Herd Disbanding Today Following Unequaled Street Parade.

PORTLAND, Ore., July 12.—The great herd of Elks, which has made the city a stamping ground for the past week, is disbanding today after one of the greatest parades in coast history. Fifteen thousand people were in the streets to a spectacular demonstration of the power of pagantry.

"The White Oaks," of Oakland, proved themselves the crack drill team of the California delegations, for they captured second prize of $200 in the competitive drill, yielding the palm only to the veteran Denver team. Los Angeles was third and San Francisco fourth.

Over five miles of pavement for three hours today the Oakland and San Francisco bands, drum and bugle, and stepping to the end. The noise of the drum ceased only when the procession stopped. From dozens of persons who had never been in California, but who had been carried away by the enthusiasm and openheartedness of the delegation since its arrival, was echoed the new 1912 convention yell.

San Francisco's "1915 team," as it is known here, 27 handsomely attired bandmen still wearing the electrical lighted caps that were much in vogue last Tuesday night, followed New York Lodge, No. 1. Forty members of San Francisco No. 2, headed by J. H. Harbour and William Abbott, followed, dressed in black suits.

Sacramento had five rows of three Elks carrying parasols, joined by purple ribbons, giving an openwork canopy effect.

Los Angeles poppy-pickers led team of twenty-seven men made a better showing on parade than in competition. Numerous members of Los Angeles lodge followed the team, the entire squad wore white suits, white shoes and white cloth caps with purple bands.

OAKS FOLLOW ANGELS.

Oakland followed Los Angeles. Behind the leader came three Elks in red and blue plush suits. The Oakland drill team of twenty-seven was next in line. The orange belt loof carried thousands of oranges with which Elks pelted the crowd.

Fifteen thousand Elks were in line. Novel ideas in costumes and turnouts were numerous. Aberdeen, Wash., had a grand elk in line. Pendleton, Ore., carried out two hundred horsemen in Indian regalia, some of them almost entirely with painted bodies.

The expense of costumes alone is estimated at $250,000. It took two days to get the parade in line. The procession was so much longer than expected that at one point the van ran into itself near the end.

There were floats from the East and floats from the West. There were novel features of all sorts, dignitaries, Aberdeen, Wash., sent five splendid elk, which, attached to a phaeton were driven by a beautiful little maid from the Grays Harbor country.

Houlihan, in the same district, sent a magnificent automobile float. Mounted on the forward section were two magnificent specimens. Behind these sat a dozen pretty girls under a beautiful canopy.

DENVER SENDS BOUQUET.

Denver came along with a splendid float. Gilded elk's heads, sweet peas and fern added to a picture of a dozen pretty girls carrying white parasols with purple streamers.

Tacoma came forth with two stuffed elk standing majestically in a field of green drawing a chariot trimmed with purple and white bedecked with sweet peas.

North Yakima sent a wonderful clock drawn by six magnificent horses. From each hour point on the dial of the clock appeared the face of a dainty maiden from the apple country.

Superior, Wis., sent a huge map of the United States. On top was a picture of the new Grand Exalted Ruler Mills pointing to Superior's place on the map, the city from which he hails.

Here is the tabulated list of prize winners in the various competitive contests:

Bands on parade—First prize, $500, Berkeley, Cal.; second prize, $300, Idaho; third prize, $200, Pendleton, Ore.
Cavalry—First prize, $500, Denver, Colo.; second prize, $300, Oakland, Cal.; third prize, $200, Los Angeles, Cal.
Best appearance in line—First prize, $300, Aberdeen, Wash.; second prize, $200, Oregon City, Ore.; third prize, $100, Pendleton, Ore.

Greatest number of members in line—(Oregon lodges scored)—First prize, $300, Tacoma, Wash., with 334 members in line; second prize, $200, Seattle, Wash., with 226; third prize, $100, Vancouver, Wash., with 170.

Most unique uniform—First prize, $300, Pendleton; second prize, $200, Astoria, Ore.; third prize, $100, The Dalles, Ore.

Individual prizes of $25 each were awarded as follows: Tallest Elk, E. S. Raitt, Roseburg, Ore.; shortest Elk, Sidney Smith, Seattle, Wash.; fastest Elk, S. S. Raitt, Lexington, Idaho; fastest Elk, W. H. Moore, The Dalles, Ore.; oldest Elk, F. X. Mathieu, Portland, Ore.

Greatest number of women in the parade—First prize, $300, Vancouver, Wash., with 282; second prize, $100, Seattle, with 108.

HELD TO ANSWER TO CHARGE OF FORGERY

C. W. Brown was held to answer today on a charge of having forged a check for $25, which it is alleged he passed on Bank of America. Brown was bound over on bail of $1000 for trial before the Superior Court.

Today's case was held in connection with a charge of forgery against a man named Brown, who was bound over on bail of $1000 for trial before the Superior Court.

IRATE HUSBAND PULLED UP GATE

Also Mashed Ironing Board to Show Mary Cumming How He Felt.

Ending a turbulent married career which commenced in 1872, Mary Cumming obtained an interlocutory decree of divorce because, she alleged, James E. Cumming had pulled the front gate from its hinges on one occasion and attacked her while enraged over dinner not being ready.

This specific incident is said to have taken place in 1902. Shortly after that Cumming smashed an ironing board in the kitchen in demonstrating what he could do with such a weapon.

Henrietta F. Carter told Judge Waste yesterday that she was entitled to a final decree of divorce on August 12 last but that through an oversight on the part of her attorney the matter had been allowed to lapse. She was completely relieved of all marital ties to Lemuel C. Carter by the signing of the decree.

Frances E. Mathieson obtained a final decree from Peter Mathieson on the ground of cruelty, and Charles Simon divorced Amy Simon on the same ground.

BANDITS HOLD UP DELIVERY AUTO

Three Daring Highwaymen Step Into Street and Halt Driver.

One Tall and Two Short Men Take Part in Robbery in San Francisco.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 12.—Three armed bandits, one of whom wore a black mask, held up Charles Facchini of 505 Filbert street, while he was driving a delivery automobile belonging to the American Fruit and Cyster Company, 556 Clay street, at 4:30 o'clock this morning. The robbers were extremely daring, not only in the choice of teams for the holdup, but also in their method of procedure. They lay in wait behind a sign board in the vacant lot at Leavenworth and Sutter streets. An owl car had just passed and Facchini's machine was running just behind it. The three men leaped on the track in front of him. The masked man presented a revolver and commanded him to throw up his hands. This highwayman was attired in a long overcoat and was rather tall. His two companions, both of whom were short and stout, took no part in the robbery other than to warn their victim that if he made an outcry they would fill him full of holes. They then searched him but obtained only $1. Cautioning him to proceed on his way they ran down Leavenworth street in the direction of Market.

Facchini drove to the Bush-street station, where Sergeant Shaw detained Officers Plume and Casey to accompany Facchini in his car. It is the theory of the police that the robbers did not know they were holding up a delivery car until they had stepped into the roadway. Undoubtedly they hoped to get substantial plunder from some taxi-cab or touring car.

SIT DOWN

One Minute and Listen to Me!

So the People May Know

Give me one minute of your time and let me explain why I have broken all selling records in the tailoring trade. I have opened my store in Oakland, and have shown at least 2000 men the difference between ordinary clothes and first-class tailoring. If I could sit down and talk one minute to every man in town there wouldn't be anyone in the tailoring business in Oakland but Stetson when I got through. I could show you why my coats—made with concave shoulders—will fit you closely at the collar. I would point out to you that the fronts of my coats cannot break down, because they are made with a special construction—strengthened where the strain comes. I could explain the interior workmanship that's put into each garment. And you could see the class of merchandise I carry. Those are not all the arguments that can be made in my favor. I am more particular with the trimmings I put in the suit than most tailors, and have the ability to produce a suit just like every man wants it. During the special sale I am having just now price is no object. I am forgetting profits. I simply want to unload my medium weights and make a lot of friends—at the same time keep my force of tailors and cutters working. Saturday and Monday I will make up suits and overcoats at absolute cost.

I carry a complete assortment of staple blue and black serges, unfinished worsteds, black clay worsteds, fine imported black broadcloth and doeskins. The very latest rough chevots and West of England diagonals in blues and browns.

STEAMER BLAMED FOR BATTLESHIP COLLISION

NEWPORT, R. I., July 12.—The Fall River steamer Commonwealth is blamed by the naval board of inquiry for the collision with the battleship New Hampshire off Newport last Sunday morning. No further details were given out here as to the board's report, which has been sent to Rear-Admiral Hugo Osterhaus, commander-in-chief of the Atlantic fleet. The New Hampshire will be sent to New York for repairs, which, it is estimated, will take about two months to complete.

CONFESSES CONSPIRACY TO BLOW UP BANKER

SAN JOSE, July 12.—William Desmond, the Mountain View restaurant keeper, who kept officers at bay with a pistol and dynamite a few nights ago, yesterday gave to the Sheriff and District Attorney a confession, in which he states that Charles Scramton, a Mountain View grocer, and Desmond, had planned to rob the Mountain View Bank, of which J. S. Mockbee is president. They planned to then blow up the Mockbee home, killing the banker's entire family, because Mockbee had refused to lend Scramton money and had acted as the agent of a fire insurance company which held up the insurance of Desmond's restaurant. Scramton first obtained Desmond's gratitude, the confession recites, by giving him a house, rent free, and his necessities for two months after the fire and then furnished him the weapons with which to kill Mockbee.

TWO ARE VICTIMS OF AN ACCIDENT

Husband and Wife Die When Gas Escapes Into Room.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 12.—The accidental breaking of a gas globe cost the lives of an aged couple as they slept in their home, 412 Green street, early this morning. Pietro Imperiale, a laborer, 64 years old, and his wife Angelina, 61, were the victims. When they were found this morning Mrs. Imperiale was dead and her husband succumbed while en route to the hospital.

Imperiale spent the evening with his step-children and did not retire until 11 p. m. His wife, who was not feeling well, was already asleep when he entered the room. While putting out the gas he smashed the globe, accidentally turning on the stopcock. At 7 o'clock this morning Salvatore Alamo, who occupies the adjoining apartment, awoke, feeling ill. He went into the hallway determined to send for a physician and then for the first time noticed the odor of gas. The room was forced and it was found that Mrs. Imperiale was already dead. Her husband was sent in the harbor ambulance to the Central Emergency hospital, but it was found too late to save him.

Pietro Imperiale was Mrs. Imperiale's second husband. He was married by three sons and a daughter, all of whom lived with her, and the other son resided in Italy.

FOOD AND DRUG MEN GUESTS OF CANNERS

SEATTLE, July 12.—Having finished in one hour almost all the work allotted for Thursday, the convention of the Association of American Food and Drug Officials boarded the steamer Slough this morning and made the trip through the Puget Sound Islands as the guests of salmon canning interests of the sound and Alaska. ### AUSTRIAN DREADNOUGHT REPORTED TO BE FAILURE

VIENNA, July 12.—Despite official denials, reports are persistent in circulation that the construction of the first Austrian dreadnought, the 12,000-ton Viribus Unitis, has proved a complete failure. The war ship is top-heavy, and all efforts to lighten her so far have proved unsatisfactory. Massive portions of iron and steel turrets have been sealed down to such a degree that certain parts have buckled and have had to be reinforced with iron plates. Steel rollers for raising and lowering heavy guns have been drilled out, thereby reducing their weight, but at the same time lessening their power of resistance to such an extent that in the event of the rapid firing of the guns the rollers will collapse and render the guns useless.

WILL RECALL GOVERNOR.

MADRID, July 12.—It is understood that the Governor of the Spanish province of Orense is to be recalled on account of lack of energy shown in surveying the Portuguese frontier.

ILLINOIS PRIMARY LAW EXCLUDES THIRD PARTY

CHICAGO, July 12.—There is only one Republican organization in Illinois, and there can only be one under the primary law of the State, according to leaders in the party, who have been making investigations since the agitation began for a third State ticket. While the primary law does not in so many words define what is or what is not a Republican, it is believed its restrictions on the activities of one-party men in the councils of another are such that should the nominee of a regular Republican organization desert to the ranks of a new party, successful action might be brought against him to have his name removed from the Republican list of candidates. Probably because they are satisfied they are protected by the primary law, Republican leaders in the State are showing no uneasiness over the activities of the third party promoters in trying to induce Republican nominees to desert the regular organization.

MUSICIANS LAY PLANS FOR STATE ORCHESTRA

LOS ANGELES, July 12.—Henry Bretherick, president of the Music Teachers' Association of California, which closed its annual session here yesterday, is considering today suggestions for membership on a committee which has been authorized to arrange for the establishment of a state symphony orchestra. Under the plan as approved by the association, the chambers of commerce or the city councils of the various municipalities in the state will be asked to cooperate in supporting the proposed state orchestra, which would travel continuously over the state giving free concerts.

KILLED IN COLLISION.

BEARDSLEY DENIES BASIS FOR SOCIALISTS' DEMANDS

Assistant City Attorney Files Opinion;
T. P. Sheehan Utters Implied Threat

Declaring that the Socialists have no legal justification in their demand for representation on the election boards to act at the recall election August 5, Assistant City Attorney Charles Beardsley filed a formal opinion with the City Council this morning in response to a request made at the instance of several of the candidates who desire to succeed the present city officials.

When the opinion of the attorney was read in council this morning, Thomas P. Sheehan, who yesterday raised a rumpus with the aid of former Mayor John P. Davis at the council meeting, started for the council board demanding the privilege of the floor. Sheehan is a candidate to succeed Commissioner Fred C. Turner.

WANTS ONLY WORD.
"May I have a word?" Sheehan called.

"The opinion has been filed," declared Mayor Mott. "There is nothing before the council."

Sheehan gasped in surprise and then turned toward the council. "You'll find out whether I shall have something to say or not," he called out as he left the council chamber.

The Socialists, representing themselves to be a political "faction," have demanded that they be permitted to name 513, or one-half, of the election officials. Beardsley informed the council this morning that the duty of the council in the matter was to name the election officials, as the charter makes the council responsible for the proper conduct of the election.

"The charter vests in your honorable body the exercise of the power to appoint members of election boards and imposes upon you the full responsibility for the proper conduct of the election."

FORMAL OPINION.
The formal opinion follows: "To the Honorable City Council of the City of Oakland: Gentlemen:—Replying to your request for an opinion as to the right of the Socialist party to demand representation on the election boards to be appointed by your honorably body for the special municipal election to be held August 5, 1912, I desire to advise you as follows:

"In my opinion, neither sections 1142, 1143, 1202 nor 1203 of the political code apply to elections held under the present charter of the city. Section 1044 of the political code, adopted in 1907 and amended in 1911, purports to name the sections that apply to municipal elections, but no mention is made therein of sections 1142, 1143, 1202 or 1203, or of any section having reference to any political party.

"Furthermore, the city charter does not contemplate the participation of any political party as such in any municipal election (article 3, section 5, subdivision 15). The obvious fact that a political party, not participating in any representation on the election boards for a municipal election, election boards for said election was decided by the Supreme Court of West Virginia in the recent case of Hasson vs. City of Chester, 67 West Virginia Reports 278, 67 Southeastern Reporter 731.

"I am of the opinion that neither the political code nor the charter provisions contemplate the recognition of any political party in the appointment of election boards. And I find nothing in the law that would require the recognition of a faction, as such, where the same or any faction would not be recognized as a political party.

"The charter vests your honorable body with the power to appoint the members of election boards and imposes upon you the full responsibility for the proper conduct of the election in the exercise of the power vested in you and in the performance of the duties imposed upon you in regard to election boards, I am of the opinion that you are legally authorized to act without reference to or recognition of any factional or political affiliation.

"Respectfully submitted,
"CHARLES A. BEARDSLEY,
"Assistant City Attorney."

RISE CAR RIGHT TO JAIL DOOR
Soldiers Who Beat Policeman Find Themselves Suddenly Behind Bars.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 12.—The disposition of two roystering soldier boys to yell like Apaches, the call of duty which bade a policeman rebuke them and the intervention of some passengers caused a near-riot on a Mission and Richmond car at midnight. That more blood was not spilled was due to the fact that the car passes the Richmond police station, and before they realized where they were the offending fighters of Uncle Sam were behind the bars.

Policeman William King boarded the car at Third and Lake streets. A theater crowd was being taken home. At every stop the soldiers yelled in derision and made comment as passengers alighted. King was in citizen's dress and finally rebuked them. They attacked him, and knocked him unconscious to the floor. Passengers prevented the soldiers from further beating the policeman.

At Clement street Policeman A. E. J. joined on, but he contented himself with standing guard for a half hour until the station was reached, when the amazed soldiers were seized by a half-dozen officers of the night relief and hustled into cells. One of them, Noel M. Logan, was charged with battery for striking King, and his companion, Charles N. Royaw, was booked for disturbing the peace.

It's a shame to spill milk, but it isn't a crying shame.

LOANS DISCUSSED BY BANK CASHIER

Careful Consideration of Pending Financial Legislation Is Urged.

F. C. Mortimer, cashier of the First National Bank of Berkeley, addressed the Manufacturers' Committee of the Chamber of Commerce last night at its regular monthly meeting, his subject being "Loans to Manufacturers."

During the course of his talk he laid down the following general principles: That because deposits are subject to immediate withdrawals, loans must necessarily be limited to thirty, sixty and ninety days; that the statements requested by the bank should be filled out exactly and carefully; that bills receivable, cash, merchandise and accounts receivable constitute the quick assets which form the basis of loans; that a credit greater than 50% to 60% of the net value of these assets is never ordinarily extended; that a compensating balance of 20% is generally required; that business character which is defined as a reputation for punctuality in meeting obligations, invariably influenced favorable action by a bank, and that current indebtedness should be wiped out each year. Finally he urged careful consideration of pending financial legislation.

S. H. Killo, also of the First National Bank of Berkeley, was another speaker along similar lines.

In line with its work to make public the advantages of Alameda county as a manufacturing district, and as an example of the growing importance attached to the industry, Secretary Fred Boagley Jr. included in his report the statement of his possession of a man anxious to invest $20,000 in a growing enterprise.

RECORD MARK NEARED IN FRUIT SHIPMENTS

SACRAMENTO, July 12.—Representatives of several Eastern railroads have been in Sacramento during the week, advising business for the fruit from fruit shippers. The movement of fruit from the Sacramento valley has been under way for several weeks, but from now on the heaviest shipping will take place.

The plum movement is as heavy now as it will be at any time during the season. The shipment of Bartlett pears from the river has started and will be active for several weeks. The height of the season is expected to occur in about ten days.

Considerable difficulty is being experienced by local shippers in getting their products to the Eastern markets owing to railroad strikes in New York.

Your Child's Health Your First Thought

If you have children, naturally your first thoughts are for their health. You certainly want them to develop strong, healthy constitutions. The most careful attention must be given when children show the first symptoms of the many common ailments. Perhaps they are weakly and thin, or grow too fast, thus sacrificing strength. These and other apparently minor ailments may be the forerunner of a weak constitution for life.

Such children need Jayne's Tonic Vermifuge, which is essentially a children's tonic. First of all, it will properly care for the child's stomach. It will also improve the appetite, and will add strength to the other organs of the body. In cases of thin or impure blood, it increases the number of red corpuscles, enabling the rich blood to keep the body healthy and strong.

Among the most common ailments that children develop is that of a disordered stomach, leading to an impaired digestion. In many cases this trouble is due to parasites in the intestinal tract. To correct such trouble, Jayne's Tonic Vermifuge is unsurpassed.

For more than eighty years millions of children have been restored to health through the use of this tonic. Insist upon Jayne's; accept no other. Sold by druggists everywhere. Dr. D. Jayne & Son, Philadelphia, Pa.

HIGHWAY BONDS SOLD: STATE $1,200,000 RICHER

SACRAMENTO, July 12.—State Treasurer E. D. Roberts succeeded in selling only $1,200,000 of the State highway bonds of which he was scheduled to sell a block of $2,000,000 at public auction yesterday. There were no bids on the last two blocks of $400,000 each, which will be sold October 1. There were only five bidders at yesterday's sale, the lack of interest on the part of the bond houses being attributed to the short terms of the bonds to be sold. They were 18s, 20s, 21st and 22s, the last two being the two blocks left unsold. Under the law, however, the bonds must be sold in favor of maturity.

The State Board of Control purchased $450,000 at par and accrued interest, the Anglo and London-Paris National Bank of San Francisco took $250,000 at par and accrued interest, N. W. Halsey & Co. took $200,000 at par and accrued interest, the C. M. National Bank $150,000, E. J. Hollins & Son, $150,000. The State pays 4 per cent interest on the bonds. The bonds, part of which was sold yesterday, was ordered to be displayed by the May meeting of the Engineering Department Advisory Board, when contracts were ordered let for highway work in Madara, Mendocino, Yuba and Marin counties.

BALLINGER NOT TO BE SUBPENAED

Seattle, July 12.—It was understood, when the House Judiciary subcommittee met today, that no more witnesses would be heard concerning the personal character of United States Congressman H. Hanford and the committee hoped to conclude the Heckman and Hansen bankruptcy inquiry. If Richard A. Ballinger wishes to testify in the bankruptcy case he will be called, but he will not be subpoenaed by the committee.

Alfred Battle, Ballinger's law partner, testified that the power of attorney by which Ballinger signed Heckman's name to a note, was written by A. J. Tennant, a clerk in Ballinger's office. It had been alleged in publications concerning the case that Ballinger wrote the power of attorney. Ballinger was not in court today and it is believed he will not testify.

HAYWARD JUBILEE FOUR MILLIONS FOUND SCATTERED

Promise of More Than $2000 Already Secured by Citizens.

HAYWARD, July 12.—The financial committee of the Hayward jubilee celebration, under the chairmanship of W. J. Ramon, has secured promises of more than $2000 from prominent business men of the community to help cover the expenses of the undertaking.

"Considering that we have been canvassing the field for but a few days," said Ramon today, "the prospect for an ample expense fund is promising. The merchants are coming through with their usual generosity."

Plans are being made to secure Indians from the government reservation, Arizona, to take part in the celebration which will be held some time in September. It is likely that some of the Navajo tribe will be invited to come here and give an exhibit of their weaving and basket-making industries.

A public meeting will be held tonight in the town hall under the auspices of the general arrangements committee, when a director general and aides will be chosen for the fiesta.

Reports of the various committees will be read and a general outline of the proposed features of the celebration given by Dr. E. Robinson, chairman of the general committee. The civic bodies, including the Hayward Hill and Valley Club and the Hayward center of the California League of Municipalities, are represented and map out a course to further the interests of the carnival.

Lumber shipped round Cape Horn in the early days and used to build the first house in Hayward, which was recently demolished, will be used in constructing a huge house representing early scenes in the history of the town.

DISCRIMINATION IS SHIPPERS' CHARGE

Oakland Manufacturers Say
Railroads Are Not Playing Fair.

To secure for Oakland shippers freight rates to points in the northern part of the state on the same scale as those in effect from San Francisco, members of the Manufacturers' Committee of the Chamber of Commerce placed their complaints yesterday before L. Richardson, director of freight and passenger agent of the Southern Pacific, and J. J. Geary, general passenger agent of the Northern Pacific. The Northwestern railroad Local men claim discrimination on the part of the railroads in favor of San Francisco, and ask that such discrimination be abolished.

Oliver S. Orlick of the California Paint Company and John G. Buswell of the Buswell Paint Company presented the complaints of the shippers; speaking for the transportation committee, George B. Waddell, chairman of the manufacturers' committee. The men claimed that a large part of up-state business is lost to local men through the difference in rates. They asserted that on certain commodities these rates are from $1 to $1.50 per ton higher than rates from the other side of the bay. The committee asked that the companies grant the same rate as that accorded San Francisco by the Northwestern to Ukiah, asking the road to omit the charge to Shasta Junction, to which point the Oakland shipments are made over the Southern Pacific.

GEARY'S REPLY.

In reply Geary of the Northwestern declared that the existing schedule was the best possible under a two-road arrangement. He said his road reached San Francisco and not Oakland, and if any difference was made in favor of this city San Francisco shippers would, in all probability, object strenuously.

Richardson of the Southern Pacific stated that a recent ruling from the state commerce commission annulled the principle that any locality was entitled to the natural advantages due to its position regardless of conditions. He further stated that the city's progress was being more retarded in the matter of manufacturing development, not by any differentiation in freight rates made by the railroads against this city, but the high price at which the land available for manufacturing sites was held.

R. B. Bird, a representative of the Nelson Steamship Company, was present at the meeting with a complaint that the manufacturers were not complying with their agreement made last month when they agreed to ship goods from Oakland dock to warrant the landing of their vessels. On May 1 the manufacturers' committee agreed that they would be able to transport at least 1200 tons of freight on the company's line. The agreement the steamship company established a wharfing place for their convenience. Between the date of May 1 and June 30, however, only 140 tons of freight were recorded. Bird states that if the company is at fault, amends will be made. Secretary Bogie has been instructed to interview the manufacturers.

CLUB IS OPPOSED TO ANNEXATION

Organization Passes Resolutions
Against Proposed
San Francisco Grab.

Further opposition to the annexation of Oakland and its environs to San Francisco has been voiced in resolutions passed by the Eugene Stachler Social, Political and Improvement Club at its last meeting Wednesday night.

The resolutions are as follows:

Whereas, the members of the Eugene Stachler Social, Political and Improvement Club are unanimously opposed to the annexation of our city to San Francisco; and

Whereas, the members of this club intend to go on record as promising to do all in our power to defeat the measure that will try to annex our city; now therefore, be it

Resolved, that in drafting these resolutions we have in mind the great advancement that our good city Oakland has made in the past few years, and the great amount of work that is mapped out for the future, and if carried to a successful conclusion, will place our good city of Oakland far above San Francisco. We also believe that Oakland will greatly benefit itself during the next few years by having a great influx of eastern people settle within her borders who would prefer the climate and surroundings of Oakland in preference to San Francisco, and we believe that San Francisco is acting in a selfish manner in endeavoring to try and wrest from Oakland the fruits of her struggle for years to accomplish a most beautiful and prosperous community, advancing at rapid pace, and we firmly believe will in five years show to the world that Oakland will be the Queen City of the Pacific coast; and be it further

Resolved, that the Eugene Stachler Social, Political and Improvement Club will co-operate with the Oakland Chamber of Commerce in every effort to bring to the bitter end, and it is ordered that the secretary of the club be instructed to mail a copy of these resolutions to the Chamber of Commerce of Oakland for future use.

(Signed) EUGENE STACHLER, President.
C. E. Chisholm, Secretary.

HIGH LICENSE IS ADVISED BY CLUB

Good Government Organization of San Leandro Starts Campaign.

SAN LEANDRO, July 12.—A public meeting was held last night under the auspices of the San Leandro Good Government club and the issue before the people in the higher license election on July 29, was thoroughly discussed. The club is directly responsible for calling the election, it having elaborated the ordinance which will be voted upon. The proposed ordinance call for an increase for saloon licenses from $75 to $150 per quarter and the installation of glass fronts and the abolishment of back rooms and doors in all establishments where liquor is sold.

The meeting was under the chairmanship of L. J. Tottemier, president of the organization, who reported that ample funds had been secured to prosecute the campaign to bring the election to a successful issue. A special committee will be named in a few days to prepare literature showing why the election should be carried. The president will also name a general campaign committee. The gathering was held in the assembly hall of the Masonic Temple.

PROBE DEATH OF EX-PRIZE FIGHTER

Frank McConnell Succumbs
After Being Beaten by Step-Father.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 12.—Frank McConnell, an ex-prize fighter, who was crippled in the ring some years ago, died at an early hour this morning. McConnell, who lives at 1340 Natoma street, was beaten by his step-father in a family row several weeks since, and although the police have no information regarding the circumstances of his death, Detective Burke was sent out to bring in the step-father in order that he may be questioned. McConnell was in bed on the night of the trouble when the step-father returned home and struck his wife. McConnell jumped up and although he had been partially paralyzed he gave battle to the irate man. He was badly hurt and was removed to the Central Emergency hospital.

The investigation by the detectives revealed the fact that McConnell had succumbed to peritonitis. His physician stated that death was not due to any injury which had been inflicted, and exonerated his stepfather, J. Connelly. Although the officers have not dropped the matter, it is thought that there will not be any necessity for arrest.

ANTI-MOTORBIKE MEASURE URGED

William J. McCoy Preparing
Bill to Safeguard Downtown Shoppers.

William J. McCoy, a music teacher, with offices in the Albany building is heading a movement to exclude motor-cycles from the city's shopping centers during the busiest hours of the day. McCoy was knocked down and painfully injured a few weeks ago by a reckless motorcyclist. He has been promised the support of several prominent citizens and expects to lay the matter before the Chamber of Commerce and the Merchants' Exchange for endorsement.

McCoy hopes to see his measure incorporated in the form of an ordinance that will be made a part of the city's traffic regulations.

"The present-day motorcyclist," says McCoy, "is too easy to control and far more dangerous to pedestrians than an automobile, and while the latter is used for commercial purposes, the former is not. If everyone who was injured by motorcyclists would bring suit, either a civil or criminal action, we would soon put a stop to the recklessness of the class."

CAVALRY ROUTS REBEL FORCES

General Orozco Hopes to Keep
Mexican Federal Army Divided.

JUAREZ, Mex., July 12.—Information from rebel sources today is that federal cavalry have driven the insurgents from San, thirty miles north of the city of Chihuahua, on the Mexican Central railroad. Only a few shots were fired. Skirmishes are expected continually as the federals move north. Less than 1000 rebels are scattered along the Mexican Central over the 100 miles from San to Juarez and today there are hardly 500 men in Juarez.

Though Pascual Orozco will return south tomorrow over the Mexican Central to a point near Gallago, 141 miles south, no campaign is likely along that route, the rebel intention being merely to keep General Huerta's forces divided while the principal rebel strength causes trouble along the Mexican Northwestern railroad, between Casas Grandes and Madera.
